

GERMAN RIOT SITUATION SERIOUS

High School Bonds Are Carried By 1101 To 205 Vote

WILL BEGIN WORK SOON AS MONEY OBTAINED

Clean Cut Victory Scored by Forces Favoring Larger Issue

TWICE AS MANY VOTES AS IN LAST ELECTION

Additional Classrooms Are Needed and No Delay Will Be Allowed

THE $110,000 bonds for an assembly hall, gymnasium and other improvements at Santa Ana High School were carried by a vote of 1101 for to 205 against the bonds.

It was a clean-cut victory for the bonds. The vote for the bonds was nearly five and a half to one.

While nearly twice as many votes were cast yesterday as in the election held on Sept. 3 when $50,000 was voted, there were six fewer votes against the bonds yesterday than were cast against the bonds in September.

The bonds voted in September were found invalid, and in calling a new election the board of education asked for money for other improvements at the high school in addition to the assembly hall.

The vote in September was 472 for the bonds and 211 against. A total of 683 votes were cast at that election. Yesterday a total of 1306 votes were cast. With 205 votes against the bonds, 1101 votes for the bonds would have carried them.

Vote by Precincts

The vote by precincts yesterday was as follows: No. 1, voting at Intermediate school, yes 259, no 33. No. 2, voting at Lincoln school, yes 190, no 39. No. 3, voting at Roosevelt school, yes 144, no 49. No. 4, voting at high school, yes 193, no 15. No. 5, voting at McKinley school, yes 77, no 21. No. 6, voting at Hickey and Ross streets, yes 238, no 48.

F. L. Andrews, secretary of the school board, said today that the bonds would be offered for sale at the earliest possible date. It is the desire of the school board to have the construction work done as soon as possible, for conditions at the high school are such that additional classrooms are needed now.

Material Cost Higher

While the cost of materials has advanced considerably since the estimates upon which the bond election was called were made, the school board hopes to be able to get bids low enough to allow all of the work contemplated to be done as originally planned.

The things proposed to be done under the bond issue are as follows: The building and furnishing of an assembly hall seating 1700 people, with rooms for oral expression and music. The building of four additional classrooms at the west end of the high school building. The building of a gymnasium for the high school with physical training quarters for girls. Making of additions to the manual training building. Re-modeling rooms now used as a girls' gymnasium.

HUGHES TO ASSIST SOCIALISTS' FIGHT

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—Following an all-night session of the New York Bar Association, Charles E. Hughes and four other members were chosen to represent that organization in the fight for reinstatement of the five suspended socialist assemblymen.

In addition to Hughes, the legal committee will include Morgan J. O'Brien, Joseph M. Proskauer, Louis Marshall and Ogden L. Mills.

The resolution authorizing appointment of the committee and placing the organization on record as protesting against the suspension of the socialists following a bitter debate of several hours was adopted 174 to 177. Most of the opposition developed from the fear of certain members that participation of the association in the matter would only result in providing political capital for the socialists.

ITHACA, N. Y., Jan. 14.—Donald W. Fether, Los Angeles, sophomore at Cornell University, was found guilty in county court here yesterday of violating the liquor law and was fined $200.

SIMS RAPS DANIELS FOR NAVY CONDUCT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—The controversy between Rear Admiral Sims and Secretary Daniels took a new turn today when Daniels announced he had received another letter from Sims severely criticizing his policy in conducting the navy during the war.

MAN IS KILLED IN FALL OFF BUILDING

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 14.—James D. Plevros, an interpreter, fell or leaped from the roof of the Pacific Electric building shortly before noon today and was dead when he struck the sidewalk on Main street, two hundred feet below.

Apparently no one saw the man until his body was whirling through the air. It struck on the coping of the second story, poised a minute and then dropped to the sidewalk, a shapeless mass. Papers on the body indicated Plevros had been in ill health.

Scores of pedestrians crowded the sidewalk as the body fell. It narrowly missed H. S. Merritt, a fireman, who was in the crowd.

VON BRINCKEN URGES DROPPING DEPORTATION

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 14.—Whether Wilhelm von Brincken shall be deported now rests with the U. S. department of labor.

Although the case is under the jurisdiction of Seattle immigration authorities, federal officials here today are gathering data at their disposal to be turned over to the department of labor. This followed the filing of briefs with the department of labor yesterday by attorneys for the former attaché of the German consulate here, asking that the deportation proceedings be dropped.

Von Brincken was not a co-conspirator with von Schack and Franz Bopp, the briefs contend. The latter two still are in the penitentiary for having violated the neutrality of the United States. Von Brincken was released from prison when his term expired early this week.

BELGIUM GRANTED LOAN

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—Belgium has been granted a loan of $25,000,000 by a syndicate headed by J. P. Morgan & Company, it was learned today. The loan is in the form of one and five year 6 per cent notes, which will be offered for public subscription.

EXTRA TIME NEEDED FOR COUNT OF CITIZENS

If You Are Not Listed In Census Notify Chamber of Commerce

"WHAT'S the population of Santa Ana?"

How many times will that question be asked during the ten years between now and 1930?

Thousands of people will get that information from the records of the 1920 census now being compiled.

Twelve men and women today are devoting their time and energies to counting the people of this city and unless the time for the enumeration is extended they will have to complete their work by tomorrow evening.

The task of making a complete listing of the people of this city is beyond the capabilities of the enumerators within the period permitted, and unless the residents of the city who have not been listing co-operate to the extent of taking a personal interest in the count and leaving their names at the Chamber of Commerce or with the enumerator of their district, Santa Ana will be registered in the official report with figures much less than she is justly entitled to.

The Chamber of Commerce is taking an active interest in the count and is offering the facilities and services of its office in assisting the people in a quick and dependable means of having their names recorded. Those who have not as yet been "tagged" should take the trouble either to call in person or telephone the secretary of the Chamber of Commerce or get in direct touch with the census taker in their precincts.

No Complaints Heard

No particular complaint has been heard among the enumerators at the refusal of people to give their names, ages and other information required by the government, but it has been necessary for the counters to make many trips to one address in order to secure the data wanted.

No obstacle should be thrown in the way of these workers, nothing should be done that will delay them in their progress.

In the hope of securing an extension of time and to add to the weight of its appeal to others that are going into the census bureau at Washington, the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce last night forwarded the following telegram to W. M. Stewart, assistant director of the census:

"Unavoidable circumstances have delayed work here. Assume accurate census is desired. If so extension of time is essential. Respectfully request that reasonable extension be granted."

Fifteen Days Too Short

All districts have found that fifteen days is too short a time in which to complete the work and all are asking for time extension. Below is the list of city enumerators, their street numbers and the precincts assigned to them. Cut this list out and keep it for reference. The precincts are based on the old lines and not under the new districts recently established by the board of supervisors. There are thirty precincts in the city and they are divided among twelve enumerators, their official numbers being as follows:

- 78—Marie H. Perley, 802 Bush; precincts 2 and 3.
- 79—Prince L. Tople, 320 S. Main; precincts 4 and 29.
- 80—Maud J. Lash, 421 S. Broadway; precincts 5 and 23.
- 81—Kate S. Scott, 619 E. Fourth; precincts 6, 7 and 8.
- 82—Viola Alice Franklin, 1001 E. Chestnut; precincts 9 and 10.
- 83—Francis E. McCarter, 1128 Orange; precincts 11, 12 and 30.
- 84—Mrs. Daisy E. Turner, 409 Stafford; precincts 13, 14 and 15.
- 85—Jerome L. Parks, 1105 W.

Johnson Cheered at S. F. Banquet Where Hays States Republican Aims

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 14.—In what promised for a time to be a rally for Senator Hiram Johnson, western Republican leaders last night gathered at the Palace Hotel at a banquet given in honor of Will H. Hays, chairman of the Republican committee.

Johnson's name was wildly cheered when it was mentioned by Mayor James Rolph and State Chairman Raymond Benjamin. Chairman Hays digressed from his set speech long enough to pay a compliment to Senator Johnson, to whom he referred as "one of the nation's greatest assets."

Over two thousand men and women attended the meeting. The banquet was a general gathering of the Republican clan. Ray Benjamin, state chairman, was introduced as toastmaster by W. H. Crocker, National Committeeman of California. Gov. Stephens and Mayor Rolph extended welcomes in behalf of the state and city and other speakers were Mrs. John J. South, chairman of the women's division of the Republican National Committee; Mrs. C. A. Severance of Minnesota; Mrs. Mary Hill McCarter of Kansas; Mrs. Josephine Corliss Preston of Washington; Miss Mary Garrett Hay of New York and Will H. Hays.

Johnson Will Take Pact Ratification To People

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—Senator Hiram W. Johnson of California declared in an address in Brooklyn last night he would accept the challenge of President Wilson to take the ratification of the peace treaty to the people.

"I don't care whether Republican leaders accept this gauge of battle or not," he said. "For one, I accept the issue, and I shall go to the people. A subject which deals so intimately with the treasure and blood of the average American is a subject upon which he has the right to ultimate decision. Politicians may seek to avoid this issue, but I can say, with all solemnity, if the politicians unite in endeavoring to prevent its discussion, the American people will wrest it from the politicians and themselves decide it."

Deported Radicals From U. S. 'Peaceable as Lambs'

BY CARL D. GROAT
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

KIEL, Jan. 14.—The 249 deported radicals a board the United States transport Buford—the "soviet ark"—have been as "peaceable as lambs," officers of the transport told the United Press here.

The "reds" have been "eating all they can get," but have made no disturbances and offered no threats of what they will do when they reach Russia, the officers said. American correspondents were taken aboard the vessel.

There has been some slight dissatisfaction among the crew, it was learned, and three sailors, one of Irish and two of German birth, deserted Saturday night.

Repair work on the Buford was proceeding rapidly, officers said. The former reported destination near Reval was incorrect, it was learned. The report arose from a misunderstanding. German newspapers were told the Buford probably would land at "a Baltic port" and they confused this with the name "Baltic Port," as the outer harbor near Reval is known here.

The "reds" were permitted to gather on the forward deck daily when the weather was fair, officers said. They spent their time singing the Marseillaise and in exercising. Part of the voyage was stormy and the radicals were forced to stay below decks.

Alexander Berkman and Emma Goldman spent most of their time in reasonable discussion on general topics, officers said, but always became angry when any of the immigration officials aboard mentioned bolshevism.

Should the Jugo-Slavs accept this solution today, Nitti, who is accompanied by several ministers for that purpose, will immediately propose to them a final treaty which is considered certain President Wilson also will accept.

CHICAGO 'FLU' CASES SHOW BIG INCREASE

CHICAGO, Jan. 14.—A rapid increase in the number of influenza cases in Chicago was reported today by health officials. The great lakes naval training station was ordered quarantined. All leaves were cancelled and no visitors are allowed. During the last seven days 158 cases were reported in Chicago, with 14 deaths.

DISORDERS BEING PUT DOWN BY ARMY

State of Siege Proclaimed In Many Sections As Result of Fights

SCORES ARE KILLED IN BERLIN BATTLES

Ruhr District and Upper Silesia Declared Under Martial Law

LONDON, Jan. 14.—Latest reports from Berlin this afternoon indicated the situation in Germany was serious, but had not reached the gravity of a revolution.

Yesterday's demonstration and rioting near the reichstag apparently was inspired by the independent socialists, who frankly are out to overthrow the government, dispatches said.

BERLIN, Jan. 14.—The government today announced martial law had been declared in the Ruhr district and in Upper Silesia because of disorders attending the railway strike. The government is determined to use every means to suppress the strike, it was announced.

A state of siege has been proclaimed throughout Germany with the exception of Wurtemberg, Saxony and Bavaria as the result of widespread riots.

The proclamation was issued by President Ebert late yesterday.

Scores have been killed in riots in Berlin and more than 100 men and women wounded.

The fighting occurred when police and soldiers attempted to disperse a great mob which had formed in front of the reichstag building. Hand grenades were used by the police with fearful results.

The mob began gathering shortly after noon in response to requests for a demonstration against pending labor legislation in the reichstag.

Try to Rush Reichstag

At first the meeting was orderly. Then radical speakers so inflamed the people they attempted to rush the reichstag. Fighting followed.

Less than a score of guards were about the building, but they hurriedly called reinforcements.

Machine guns were brought into use and great confusion followed. Many women were trampled as the great crowds attempted to escape the hail of bullets from the soldiers and police.

Dead and wounded littered the square in front of the reichstag.

Mob leaders commanded taxicabs to carry off the injured. Street and the steps in front of the reichstag were smeared with blood.

The outbreak was believed to be a direct result of the government's new policy of allowing peaceful demonstrations. Many leaders pointed out it would have been impossible had Gustav Noske, minister of defense continued his former policy of ruthless quelling of all attempts at radical demonstrations.

Outbreak Is Wide-spread

Reports here indicated the outbreak was widespread. Rioting has occurred at Hamburg, in Rhineland Prussia, where mobs were said to have rushed the town hall, destroying the archives. Similar riots occurred in villages in the Hamburg district.

Agitation began some time ago when the railway strike was declared. There were rumors at that time the radicals planned a general out-

CRAWFORD MADE
NEW CASHIER OF BANK

Following the annual meeting of stockholders of the California National Bank and at the organization of the directors for the year, Elmer L. Crawford was elected cashier of the bank to succeed L. M. Doyle, who on account of ill health, has been out of the bank for some time. It is expected that Doyle will soon be able to return to the bank and again become active in the management of the growing institution. The newly elected cashier has been with the bank since its organization in 1910, and has lived in Santa Ana and vicinity since 1903. His first experience in the banking world was obtained as bookkeeper for the Commercial Bank of Santa Ana before the merging of that institution with the Farmers & Merchants' National Bank of this city. He is well known and well liked, and during the absence of the cashier demonstrated his ability for handling the cashier-ship.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the California National Bank was held at its banking rooms yesterday, there being represented in person and by proxy 735 shares of stock. The entire board of directors was re-elected, as follows: E. E. Vincent, L. M. Doyle, A. E. Bennett, A. G. Finley, E. L. Crawford, A. J. McFadden, J. G. Quick, M. M. Doyle, M. Nilsson.

Following the election of directors the directors met and elected officers for the bank, as follows: E. E. Vincent, president; A. G. Finley and L. M. Doyle, vice-presidents; E. L. Crawford, cashier; H. M. Sammis and R. M. Doyle, assistant cashiers.

A report of the bank's condition was read showing the bank to have increased in deposits and resources over one hundred per cent during the past year. The increase in deposits in that time was $487,840.99 and in resources, $541,873.64. The deposits on December 31 were $1,376,818.73 and resources $1,659,993.97.

OREGON PLANNING TO BAR JAPS FROM LAND

SALEM, Ore., Jan. 14.—A joint resolution of the state senate, addressed to congress, was proposed here yesterday, the aim of which is said to be to check the encroachment of Japanese in the acquisition of landed rights in the state of Oregon to the exclusion of white settlers in certain sections.

The resolution, adopted at an extraordinary session here of the legislature, asks congress to amend the constitution of the United States so as to "bar all children born in this country of alien parentage who are ineligible to citizenship from becoming citizens."

$600,000

At a meeting of the stockholders of the Farmers & Merchants' Savings Bank, the stock of which is owned exclusively by stockholders of the First National Bank, M. C. Wilde, vice-president of the First National Bank, was elected a director to succeed J. A. Turner, who died recently. At the meeting of the stockholders of the First National yesterday morning, the number of directors of the First National was increased to fifteen, and Wilde was made a director. Wilde became associated with the First National, and through it with the Farmers & Merchants' Savings, last November.

Directors of the Farmers & Merchants' Savings Bank who were re-elected yesterday are W. A. Huff, A. J. Crookshank, Alex. Brownridge, C. C. Bowers, R. E. Larter, J. D. Parsons and W. B. Williams.

Officers of the savings bank were re-elected as follows: W. A. Huff, president; A. J. Crookshank, vice-president; Alex. Brownridge, cashier and secretary; E. P. Stafford and J. H. Metzgar, assistant cashiers.

The statements read at the meeting showed that since the consolidation of the Home Savings Bank and the Santa Ana Savings Bank into the Farmers & Merchants' Savings Bank last July, the deposits of the savings bank have increased over $500,000, totaling $2,053,839.35 on December 31. This increase came as an increase in business after the consolidation, not as a part of the consolidation process. In that six months the resources of the bank were increased $600,000.

BUREAU DIRECTORS WILL MEET FRIDAY

The regular monthly meeting of the directors of the Farm Bureau will be held at the farm advisor's office, Friday, January 16th, 2 p. m. Among other matters to be considered is setting the date for the annual Farm Bureau picnic. Last year it was a big success, but it is planned to have a still bigger one this year. The location will be at the Orange County Park.

Prof. J. W. Nelson of the College of Agriculture will be present Friday to report on Farm Bureau work in Northern California.

The directors from each center will have a report of the recent membership drive in his territory. Casual reports coming into the farm advisor's office indicate a good increase over last year.

So far no assistant has been arranged for aid in the heavy demands on the Farm Bureau office. This matter will also be taken up and appropriation asked for in the next annual budget.

ANAHEIM CENTER TO HAVE EXPERIMENTS

At the regular monthly meeting of Anaheim Farm Center last evening twenty Farm Bureau members were appointed, or volunteered, to conduct a thorough canvass of the Anaheim farmers for membership in the Anaheim Farm Center. The date set for the drive was Thursday, January 15.

Prof. J. W. Nelson gave a very instructive address on the formation of soils, their physical texture, and methods of improvement. He dwelt at length on the importance of maintaining the optimum amount of moisture in the soil.

The members of the Anaheim Farm Center will probably outline a number of soil fertility and soil moisture plots for the coming year, on which varying amounts of water will be used and various amounts of manures. The purpose of these plots will be to determine by the farmers, themselves, what are the desirable amounts of each for his particular soil conditions.

WEDDING GOWN TOO BRIEF FOR PRIEST

PARIS, Jan. 14.—So exaggerated have become styles of women's dress in this country that not infrequently do priests interfere and call upon women to dress with a little more caution. What would happen if priests peeped into dancing halls and saw the latest fashions?

But that which can be said is that in more than one case priests here have refused to marry women until they have changed their dress. This happened quite recently. A bride all bedecked in white stood at the altar only to be told to go home and change or alter her dress if she wanted to be married at church.

It appears she wore a white satin dress, the bottom of which barely hid her knees. She wore thin silk stockings. The top of her dress was deeply cut away, showing so much of her chest that the worthy priest was shocked. Even a large bouquet of orange blossoms tucked in at the bottom of the V cutaway could not induce him to alter his mind.

The bride went away and returned a few days later draped in a long loose fitting satin garment which held her tight at the throat and reached her ankles. It was plain to see that she was not at her ease, and emerging from the church after the wedding ceremony she gave one long sigh and rushed her carriage to her home, where she doubtless donned her former attire.

SMILEY WILL VISIT HAWAIIAN FARMERS

James Smiley of West Orange, a director of the Farm Bureau, leaves Thursday of this week for a three months' trip to the Hawaiian Islands. He expects to visit a daughter, who is living there at the present time, and during his stay at the islands will make a study of the methods of agriculture used in the various island agricultural industries. Smiley will make a report of his observations to the West Orange Farm Center upon his return.

During his absence the regular meetings of the West Orange Farm Center will be held at the residence of Fred Schlueter on West LaVeta avenue.

RANCH HORSE ARRIVES IN WAKE OF FAMILY

GREAT FALLS, Mont., Jan. 14.—The ranch of Mrs. Wilhelmina Kincaid lies twenty miles north of Great Falls. The family recently moved to this city to spend the winter. Mrs. Kincaid decided to leave an aged family horse on the ranch. The Kincaids arrived here in the morning. That evening while they were eating supper the old horse trotted down the street and walked into the yard. Mrs. Kincaid said the animal never had been in the city before. The horse is back at the ranch in charge of a caretaker.

STRONG SERMON PREACHED BY DR. HENRY

"Short Beds With Narrow Covers" was the subject of Dr. J. Q. A. Henry's sermon last evening at the First Baptist church, where Dr. Henry is in the midst of a revival of three weeks. The sermon was of special strength and virility.

The attendance was large, and the music was especially good.

The paragraph in Isaiah, from which the text was taken, was a graphic one, giving a remarkable description of a storm of judgment, a moral and spiritual cyclone by which God swept away all false supports from men who thought themselves secure.

He had experienced many great storms and had seen the terror with which many people met the fury of the elements both by sea and land; but no one could claim to have seen anything quite on a level with this storm spoken of by Isaiah when the soul of man was left naked in the presence of God, shorn of all false defenses and supports. Yet there was a sure foundation, an adamantine basis upon which man might build, by which he was kept unshaken, undisturbed, unmoved, through every storm, and which was in strong contrast to the inadequacy referred to in the text.

The unrequited and despised love of the Lamb of God was mentioned in Revelations as being turned into wrath. Apart from God, man had no means of protection or defence from the fires of conscience, the power of passion, the attacks of the evil one, the wrath of God; but he sought to find such means for himself. One of these short beds had narrow covers, some of these valueless supports, that men cling to was human reason. The Christian religion honored reason; but there was something greater than the mind of man. Mere intelligence never solved the problem of sin or saved from the wrath of God. Byron, Burns, Edgar Allen Poe, and Hume were examples of the fact that the highest gifts of the mind were impotent to satisfy man's conscience, to allay his desires, or to fit him for the great beyond.

Power to Make Money
Then there was money. Money could accomplish so much. Money was the passport to so many pleasures and privileges that they tried to delude themselves into thinking it would provide a passport to the eternal world. The power to make money, the Bible said, was the direct gift of God; but the man who fancied that money, with all its tremendous influence, could do the work that only Christ could do, would soon discover its insufficiency.

Others depended upon worldly pleasures. The whole world seemed afflicted with the plague of light-mindedness. They might drink from the fount of every worldly pleasure; but they would never find satisfaction—only satiety and surfeit. Others tried religious formalism; but there was no good to be got by trying to appear religious. Unless the blood was applied, the vain round of formalism and ceremony would never bring satisfaction to the soul. Again, men depended upon all forms of skepticism and infidelity. Infidelity was a cypher with the rim off, merely a great denial. When the atheist lay dying, his friend bade him hold on to his atheism, and his reply was that he would be glad to do so if he had anything to hold on to. There could be no satisfaction in that.

Others tried feeling. They wanted to feel all right; but a life of religious emotion was as impossible as it would be injurious.

Only in One could ease of conscience, the power to control passion and to defy the devil, freedom from the wrath of God, be found—namely, in the perfect life, conquering cross, and cleansing blood of Jesus Christ.

Are Your Teeth in Bad Shape?

If you have a bad tooth, perhaps what you need is a gold crown to cover it. If some teeth are missing, they can be replaced by what is called bridgework, which means that new teeth are fastened in by attaching them to other natural teeth in your mouth.

Or maybe you need artificial plates, which can be made so natural looking that it is not easy to tell them from real teeth.

The best place to have this kind of dental work done is at an office where Registered Dentists use the E. R. Parker System, because these dentists make special arrangements with out-of-town patients, so that fewer visits are required and you don't have to call so often.

Prices are always reasonable, and no charge is made for examinations and advice. There are twenty-four E. R. Parker System offices in different cities, the nearest being at

Slackers in Apartments

"In the census enumeration in San Diego I have found that the slackers are that class who call themselves good Americans, who make their homes in apartment houses and who are throwing all kinds of obstacles in the way of the enumerators in their quest for information demanded by the government," declared Chas. G. Rowan, census supervisor for this district, who was in the city today. Rowan is an old Santa Ana resident, spending his boyhood days here and being identified with the Blade in its early history.

"At a meeting of the enumerators they declared that they had been treated like menials in approaching some of the high-brow dwellers in the apartment houses, in some cases even being denied admittance.

"In view of the attitude of a number of intelligent persons to the object of the census I am very seriously considering the advisability of applying for federal warrants and causing their arrest.

"One enumerator reported that he had found an aged woman who had refused to give her age, and who had been estimated to be about 70. She told him that neither her husband nor her children knew how old she was, and that she would not tell even on the government, as that was her business. Reports indicate that the Greeks, Japanese, Chinese and foreigners are the ones who are the most enthusiastic about the census.

"It is not generally known that the enumerators are prohibited by law from publishing any information obtained through the census regarding individual affairs. This obligation to secrecy likewise applies to all persons connected with the census."

In the machine with Poston at the time were his wife and a cousin of Mrs. Poston. None of the occupants of the Poston car was injured.

Johnson Cheered at S. F. During Banquet to Hays

Florence Collins Porter of Los Angeles; National Committeeman S. A. Perkins of Washington; National Committeeman Allen B. Jaynes of Arizona; Mrs. George Reinecke of Illinois; Thomas H. Tongue, Jr., State chairman of Oregon; S. A. Walker, State chairman of Washington and Albert M. Sames, State chairman of Arizona and Harry G. Humphreys, National Committeeman, Nevada.

National Chairman Hays, in his address at the banquet, declared that in the campaign to come strict standards of morals, equity and justice would govern the Republican party.

"We have always said, 'We join ourselves to no party that does not follow the flag and keep step to the music of the Union.' Well, the Republican party has not followed the flag and kept step to the music of the Union. No; the Republican party has carried the flag and made the music for the Union."

"It is not, however, the past with which we are concerned. The history of the growth of the Republican party is the story of the progress of the Nation. Conceived when our foundation trembled, born in the lap of extremities, it went out in its swaddling clothes and heralded its own birth by saving the life of the Nation."

"The Republican party must and shall continue to be the instrument in this country to apply to new changing conditions the wisdom of experience and the efficacy of honest, zealous service."

"Political parties are not instruments of individuals to use for personal aggrandizement. Political parties afford the means by which thinking men and women first promulgate and then apply principles for the control of the influences which surround the place they call their home. Hence the reason, the strongest of all reasons, for the interest of women in politics."

"During the war every act of the Republican party in state and nation was determined solely by how it could contribute most to the sum total of war good. In that crisis, with the control of the government in other hands, the Republican party, true to its traditions, became the war party of the country, insisting upon the right of full participation, giving the limit of our blood and our treasure, standing immovable against an inconclusive peace, and crying continually to the party in power, 'Carry on! Carry on! Carry on!'"

"So now in the trying times ahead the Republican party determines its every step by how it can contribute most to the country's welfare."

"We attribute honesty of purpose to the opposition and our message to them is that each party makes its business to see which can go the farther in developing plans and executing purposes for the welfare of the people and the glory of the Nation. Let this be the real contest between political parties in this country."

"There are two natural inquiries from women new in politics. (1) What does the Republican party offer for the women? (2) What does the Republican party stand for?"

Same as to Men.

"The Republican party offers the women everything we offer the men. The only just rule for a political party is that the rights of participation in the management of the party's affairs must be and remain equally sacred and sacredly equal. The Republican women in the country constitute one-half of the party's membership. In many states this has been so in the Presidential campaign of 1920 it is my very earnest hope and well-founded judgment that it shall be so everywhere."

"The Republican women come into the party actively not as women but as voters, entitled to participate, and participating, just as other voters. Their activity is not supplementary, ancillary or secondary at all—they are units in the party membership, and where the suffrage for them is new they come in just as men have come in when they have reached the legal voting age."

"To women and to men alike the party offers the right of a political self-administration, and that is the answer to the second query. 'What does the party stand for?' Within the Republican party there is and must be full political self-determination. It is entirely up to the party membership to say what the party's purpose shall be, what its policies shall become."

Chance to Express Selves.

"This fundamentally is what we offer the women—the chance to express themselves. We have no hard and fast set of rules, no unalterable list of dogmas which we present to women and say, 'There it is. Take it or leave it.' Instead, we offer the open forums in the party organization which is always open to conversion from within."

"Party programs must always be subject to amendment and change by the responsible living thought expressed within the party by men and women alike. Through it all, however, must run the supreme motif, and in the Republican party that supreme motif is and always shall be the honest, patriotic and intelligent effort to promote and safeguard the best interests of the Republic and its citizens."

"What does the Republican party stand for?"

"Well, it is up to you as much as any part of the party membership to determine what the party stands for; but I suggest that above all things else the Republican party stands first for the faithful, efficient and honest administration of the business of the country."

Honesty Best Policy.

"It was formerly said that 'Honesty is the best policy' as a matter of business. Honesty is the best policy as a matter of morals. In like manner, there is but one kind of successful politics, and that is the politics of faithful, efficient and honest administration."

"The Republican party stood during the war: First, for the use of every possible means of winning the war; second, for a peace with victory only; and third, for a sane preparation for the solution of the problems of peace."

"We insist that we are as unprepared for peace as we were for war. We cried continually for preparation to that end. Every country except America was preparing for peace long before the war ended. We slipped along under this Democratic administration, without any adequate thought of the problems that would confront us until the shock of peace was here."

"Our duty in all these matters is before us, and that duty we will not shirk. Republicans shall bring this government back to the limitation of the Constitution in times of peace; and well indeed may our party give its best thought to that matter."

Would Halt Socialism.

"With all our power we will strive to prevent the further spread of socialism, and set this nation's feet once more firmly on the path of progress and along ways which liberty and order must ever guard and preserve."

"To this end we have promised a forward stepping as well as a forward looking program for labor, for business, and for the farmer, and those promises we will keep."

"The Republican party recognizes that labor constitutes the country's chief asset. In the crisis through which we have passed the labor of the country was its salvation."

"The labor of this country is entitled to and will receive fair representation in all the councils of the nation. We will have just remedial legislation for the betterment of this great group of our population at all times, not only because it is their due, but because by justice always we can prevent the insidious influence of the criminal element of the I. W. W. from taking hold in the ranks of real labor. And that criminal element, organized or unorganized, called I. W. W. or anything else, that goes about this country seeking whom it can destroy—that thing is a traitor to this country, nothing else, and should be treated as such."

Must Help Business.

"Vigorous and thorough shall be our efforts to make certain for the business of the country that opportunity and encouragement which will insure its development and growth upon which prosperity of all depends. In this great readjustment business we must have sympathetic help, not antagonistic curtailment."

"Our problems are largely economic. The industrial difficulties in this country, which at the present moment seem to be overwhelming, can be, and I have implicit faith, will be solved in one way—by finding exact justice and enforcing it."

"To that end we must develop a reasonable method for honest and efficient labor to acquire an interest in the business to which labor is expected to give its best efforts. Pending this development, the equilibrium between production and wages must be established and there must be justice for all."

"The Republican party from its inception has stood against undue federalization of industries and activities. There must be strong federal regulation, but not government ownership."

"The railroad problem will be solved, and solved fairly, with provision for a just return on real investment and with reasonable assurances for essential development and extensions. We are against paternalism in government and we are against that form of pedagogic paternalism that has developed recently in this country."

Law and Order to Reign.

"There is in this country a religious faith which believes in the divine origin of the Constitution of the United States. While we may not adopt that tenet, I approve the direction of the thought, and I recommend the appreciation. The time is here when our heel must be in the ground. Law and order shall reign in this country. We are the freest government on the face of the earth, and our strength rests in our patriotism. Anarchy flees before patriotism."

"The special session of congress just closed saved to the nation nearly a billion dollars, and if nothing else had been accomplished by the Republican control except this it would warrant an overwhelming Republican victory next year."

"I urge the practice on the part of all of the strictest individual economy consistent with the proper development of present day needs and possibilities. Another great lesson of the war is industry and thrift."

Debt Owed to Soldiers.

"The Republican party will never forget the debt we owe to the soldiers who have won this war."

"And let us never forget how great has been the contribution of the women of this country to this war, and how great is our obligation to them. It is the women who have stood the strain, and secondly to the soldiers is the gratitude due them."

"Remember, Republican women, there are no yesterdays in our politics. We do not care how anyone voted in 1912, '14, '16 or '18 nor his reason for so doing. All who are engaged in the great work that is before us are entitled to the same consideration, the one who has not always voted with us and the one who has always voted with us because, perchance, he may not have had any reason for doing otherwise. Politics is matter of assimilation and not of elimination."

"No exigency, however serious, will present to this nation an unsurmountable crisis. Every problem is solvable. Readjustment demands the best there is in us as a nation, mentally and spiritually. We shall adhere to the true, clean thing, and never abandon our high ideals. Dead branches fall from the live oak during the hurricane. The fiber of the tree tightens and the roots drive deeper into the soil. This nation is a success; it is still the hope of the world; it must be made a yet greater blessing to the sons of men. The Republican party, guaranteed by its past, underwritten by its present, will measure its future steps forward by the new needs of the nation."

Hearty Praise from Cleveland Six Owners

The Cleveland Six will dominate the light car field because it is so much better. It will lead because it gives so much more in smooth-flowing power, in ease of riding, in style and quality, than other light cars. Thousands of Cleveland Sixes are on the road right now, performing in every sense and in the last degree right up to expectations.

Dealers demanding much have driven Cleveclands thousands of miles across country, over every kind of roads, putting the car to every conceivable test. And they say there is no other light car like it. No other that will do so much and do it so well and so economically.

Cleveland owners are enthusiastic about its ease of driving. "It handles like a feather." "You can drive it with one finger." "It just almost steers itself." These and hundreds of other phrases of praise come from enthusiastic Cleveland owners.

"It steps out as fast as any car that was ever built." "The speedometer slips around to forty or fifty before you know it." "There's practically no vibration." "It fairly glides over sharp hills and long mountain climbs." Cleveland owners tell us all these things and they will tell you if you ask them.

To really know and appreciate the Cleveland, to understand all that we mean when we say it is so much better, you must ride in it and drive it.

WHY IS A PLATFORM?

It is interesting, but in our judgment not important, to note what the San Bernardino Sun, a rather straight-laced Republican newspaper, has to say about the probable or possible candidacy of President Wilson.

We say it is not important, because we believe that President Wilson will not be a candidate. That is both the personal and political logic of the situation as we see it. Even if there were not other good reasons for believing President Wilson will not seek re-election, the condition of his health alone is sufficient reason for such belief. Granting that he may recover from the illness which has kept him confined to his room for several months, it is not likely that he will risk another and almost certainly fatal breakdown by plunging into a strenuous campaign which, if successful, would be followed by a more strenuous administration of the executive office.

Moreover, it is not inconceivable that President Wilson is "fed-up" on the Presidency.

But see the "Sun" light shine on the subject:

One of the results of the Democratic Jackson Day dinner in Washington last week is the very distinct impression that President Wilson may again be a candidate for the Presidency. Even his own party leaders are completely in the dark as to his plans. It would seem to have been the natural occasion for a declaration, if he purposed to leave the field clear—unless he purposed to say upon whom his mantle shall fall. Yet his absolute silence when a declaration was looked for has driven the question of the situation to the conclusion that his candidacy is likely—health permitting.

In view of which situation, Democratic declarations on the subject become matters of interest. For the platform on which President Wilson was nominated and elected, "pledging the nominee of this convention to this principle," was the only deliverance outlining party policy, although it is the latest one. Said the assembled Democracy at Baltimore in 1912:

We favor a single presidential term, and to that end we urge the adoption of an amendment to the constitution making the President of the United States ineligible for re-election, and we pledge the candidate of this convention to this principle.

Of course a discreet silence was observed in 1916, when that plank was repudiated, but now we are facing the possibility of a Democratic candidate for a third term, and it becomes interesting to hark back to 1896, when the Democrats who would have renominated Grover Cleveland. But the party representatives at Chicago not only would not think of it, but in the 1896 platform they said:

We declare to be the unwritten law of this republic, established by custom and usage for 160 years and sanctioned by the examples of the greatest and wisest of those who founded and have maintained our government, that no man should be eligible for a third term of the presidential office.

Which we submit is about as stout a statement of what has been not only a Democratic but a national position as could be put into words. But we have learned before now that a little matter of former statement or opinion never fettered Mr. Wilson.

TRAITORS

As the sweeping up of the Red rift-raft continues, loud protests will be heard against the injustice of such a procedure, and much fuss will be made over the fact that "American citizens" are included in these sweepings. It will be declared repeatedly, as it has been already, that free speech is being denied to free men.

When these pleas are made, the cool-headed citizen need only remember all the reforms which have been brought about in this country by the orderly process of law, and then keep clearly in his mind the fact that every person included in the raids against the Reds has laid himself open, either through his actions or associations, to the suspicion that he would do his reforming by violence.

There are better laws in every state in the Union today than there were fifty years ago, or ever before. Men have more freedom and are better protected in it.

The citizen or the stranger within our gates who believes that all is not well with this country, and who has a sane constructive idea for bettering conditions through the great mediums open to our citizens, can have a hearing and will not be molested.

No specious outcries should be allowed to becloud these facts. The citizen, if he is a traitor, is doubly a traitor because he is a citizen. No such criminal should escape the dragnet or be treated with a leniency he does not deserve.

Victory for Italy

Fresno Republican

If the report by way of Buenos Ayres of the settlement of the Fiume question is correct, it indicates both that a skilled compromiser, such as Lloyd-George, has been very busy and that the result is a virtual victory for Italy. The report is that Fiume is to be an independent sovereignty, under the League of Nations, with Italy given a mandate over Albania and absolute possession of Avlona, an Albanian port. The result is that Fiume, given independence and sovereignty, may if it wishes, proceed to exercise its own authority toward obtaining formal union with Italy. The refusal of the council to concede a "corridor" for Italy around the head of the Adriatic to reach Fiume, is the other side of the compromise, but one that is comparatively unimportant. Italy's access to Fiume in peace time is about as good by sea as by land, while it is not likely that the League of Nations will allow Jugo-Slavia to erect any serious fortifications that would prevent a march of Italian troops around to Fiume if a conflict should come.

In essence, then, the result is a defeat for the ideas voiced by President Wilson, rather than a victory. For the president contended that the personal performances of what was, to his mind, an accidental Italian majority in Fiume were unimportant as compared with the principle of giving Jugo-Slavia this strategic and almost essential port on the Adriatic. The recognition of "self-determination" for the Italian majority of Fiume has in effect accomplished the Italian desire, that the Adriatic shall be made an Italian lake.

Do Not Despair

The New Republic

But do not despair of the Republic. The only thing one can be sure about in a crisis or situation or condition at Washington is that it is not unprecedented; it has happened before. Washington cannot be seen intelligently or to any effect without a background. It produces crises and periods of welter and confusion in such regularly recurring cycles as to be almost susceptible to the formulation of a law of natural phenomena. Certainly the sons and descendants of Jeremiah have rendered their garments, beat their breasts, and made loud lamentation before the Capitol and the White House after each of our war periods. They sat about in bewilderment as they sit now, saying to one another, "Was there ever such an extraordinary situation? Was there ever such another mess as we find ourselves in now? Was there ever such another set of dolts, knaves and incompetents in command of our destinies?" The answer is: There was. This is not the first time that the wind has moaned through the rigging.

What Washington is this winter, it has been, and fearfully will be again. It is always saved and rescued from the morasses into which it falls by the common sense of the people at home. Now it's time for all good men to come to the aid of their country.

The American Legion

Los Angeles Herald

Certain organizations have blackballed members of the American Legion, an action which is deplorable and unjustifiable. It proceeds from a misconception of the purposes and policies of the American Legion.

The present head of the University of California is David P. Barrows, who is also state commander of the American Legion in California. Recently he announced the Legion's principles in language which is unmistakably plain, and which expresses convictions which should be commended by everyone. He said:

"The Legion is a civil organization. Nothing that we do to make ready our service in time of need must give rise to the supposition that we are an organized military force that could ever be tempted to take an unwarranted and unauthorized control of a local situation."

This is sufficient to dispel any fallacious idea that the Legion is designed as an armed force of strike-breakers, or a political Ku Klux Klan.

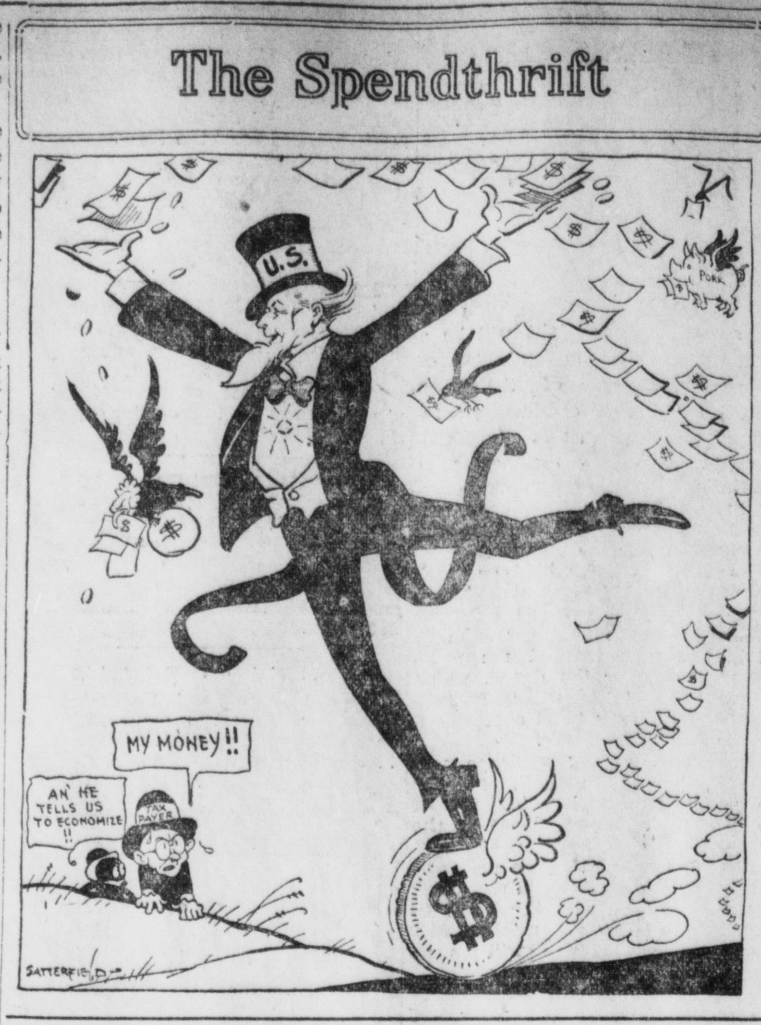

Its main purpose is to defend Americanism, and to expel or exterminate everything which is un-American from this country. That is a highly patriotic purpose and has nothing to do with race riots or struggles between labor and capital, or the carrying of elections for this or that party.

If the local officers of law and order, the police or sheriff or the district attorney need help in raiding a nest of I. W. W.'s or in securing evidence against "Reds" charged with sedition, the American Legion may be called upon.

Its influences or its aid may be invoked at any time when the American flag is endangered or the red flag of Bolshevism is flamboyant.

But it is not inimical to labor organizations or to the interests of labor. Any workman may belong to the Legion and to a union—many do.

The interests of all honest and loyal workers in this country are identical; they are working for themselves and their families, their homes and their country. They are FOR whatever is AMERICAN and AGAINST anything which is UN-AMERICAN.

What Are WE Going to Do?

All California is preparing for the better days to come. Every city in the state is looking forward to an influx of home seekers and new industries, and throughout the state the rural districts are making efforts to keep pace with the general progress that is in evidence from the Oregon line to the Mexican border. San Francisco has decided to spend $100,000 a year letting the world and his wife know that opportunities await business, industry and capital there and that the sightseer and pleasure seeker and the family planning to locate in California will find hopes attainable in the city by the Golden Gate. San Francisco frankly says $500,000 a year is more nearly what is wanted to present its attractions to all classes of people, but for the next three years will content itself with a $100,000 publicity fund. Los Angeles plans far greater activity along promotion lines than ever before, and San Diego, Fresno, Sacramento, Oakland, Berkeley, San Jose and the northern communities are alive to their opportunities and are planning to get their share of everything in sight.

Worth While Verses

THE WINDS.

Oh, when the wind comes stealing
From far and far away,
You have the strangest feeling
There's something it could say.
It whispers, whispers, trying
To tell the thing it knows,
But somehow can't, and sighing,
Away, away it goes.

And sometimes it comes singing
A song of fairyland,
A secret message bringing
I almost understand.
I see the flowers rousing,
And nodding when they hear,
But soon again they're drowsing,
I think that winds are queer.

I wonder if the wild winds
Are those grown old and sad?
Oh, I love best the child winds,
So little and so glad!
And are the gusty high winds
The big boy winds at play?
They're not so nice as my winds
That laugh and run away!

When winter winds are howling,
And all is gray and cold,
The poor old world seems scowling,
And sorry, too, and old.
But when a child wind's blowing,
Out of a sky all blue,
To set the green things growing,
The world seems glad and new!

PRICE IS BOOSTER FOR COUNTY HARBOR

Here but a few days, R. M. Price is an ardent booster for Newport Harbor and sees big possibilities in the development of the bay as an invaluable asset to Santa Ana and Orange county.

Price came the first of the year to assume the position of district manager for the Standard Oil Company. He comes here from the San Francisco office, with which he was identified for a number of years, more recently being an outside salesman in the northern district.

"I have been all over the state of California and I have found no section that approaches this in prospect and general thrift and active appearance," he declared today.

"The wealth of the county is astounding, to one who has been accustomed to the production of the North, and their character."

"No possibility of the future development of this district has impressed me more than the fine natural harbor at Newport. It certainly should be made a great asset to Santa Ana, and with the possibility of development of a big oil field in the Harper district, it should become of more than ordinary importance quickly."

Price is like a great many others in the city—he is looking for a residence. His wife accompanied him to Santa Ana and to date they have been able to find only hotel accommodations.

The new district manager is a live wire and is here to further develop the business and interest of the company he represents.

OBSERVATIONS

The little brown jug is in partnership with the little black coffin in these arid days.

Prohibition seems to be skidding a good deal, but maybe some legislative chains will fix it.

Apparently everybody has a remedy for the ills of the country except the men who are in position to apply one.

Mobs will no longer take the law into their own hands when it becomes usual for the law to take mobs in hand.

In three months New York has issued 2000 permits to buy alcohol for the making of perfume, and that way of dodging the prohibition law stinks to heaven.

At the present rate of consumption we have timber enough to last seventy-five years, and then we can buy from European countries that have sense enough to replant.

Income Tax Facts You Should Know

This is one of a series of authoritative articles prepared by the bureau of internal revenue at Washington, D. C. They are of informative value to every single person in the United States whose net income for 1919 was $1000 or more and every married person and head of a family whose net income was $2000 or more. The taxpayer is told how to make out his income-tax form, when and where to file it, and when and where to pay the tax. Deductions and exemptions to which the taxpayer is entitled are shown, and special attention directed to changes in the rates.

ARTICLE NO. 3

In making out his income tax form for 1919, the taxpayer must report the following items under gross income:

Salaries, wages, and commissions for personal services, including bonuses.

Interest received on notes and deposits in banks, including savings banks.

Dividends on stock. Only dividends paid out of earnings or profits accrued since March 1, 1913, are taxable, but dividends are deemed to be distributed out of the most recently accumulated earnings.

Profits received from the sale of property, real or personal. If the property was purchased prior to March 1, 1913, the profit is based on the difference between the selling price and the fair market price or value as of March 1, 1913.

Profits on Stock Trades

Profits from stock market transactions.

Income received from fiduciaries, that is amounts received from incomes of estates, trusts, etc., through trustees, administrators, or executors.

Partnership profits; partnerships as such, are not subject to the income tax, but each individual partner must pay a tax on the income from such partnership.

Royalties from mines, oil and gas wells, patents, copyrights and franchises.

Items Not Taxable

The following items are not taxable and need not be included in the return:

Property received as a gift by will or by inheritance. The income from such property, however, is taxable.

Proceeds of life insurance policies. Returns of premiums on life insurance, endowment or annuity contracts.

Amounts received through accident or health insurance or under workmen's compensation acts, plus the amount of damages received, whether by suit or agreement.

Interest on obligations of any state, or any city, town, county or village and the District of Columbia. Interest on obligations of the United States is exempt from tax, except that interest on obligations issued after September 1, 1917, is exempt only to the extent provided in the Liberty loan acts.

Interest on the securities issued under the provisions of the federal farm loan act of July 17, 1916.

Amounts received during the war by persons in the active military or naval forces up to $3500, in addition to personal exemption.

Interest on Liberty bonds to the par value of $5000 is exempt from all taxation. Holders of large amounts of Liberty bonds are advised to consult their bankers or collectors of internal revenues as to their exemptions.

Living Expenses Not Deductible

The law expressly prohibits the deduction of personal or living expenses. These include rent, wages of servants, cost of food and clothing for family, upkeep of automobiles used for pleasure or convenience, education of children and similar items. Income spent during the year 1919 for any of these items is subject to the tax.

MUST HAVE BIG ACREAGE FOR CONTROL

The fight that is being made by the California Prune & Apricot Growers, Inc., for "more acreage or quit" is of particular interest among apricot growers in Orange county. Prunes cut little figure here. An effort is being made to get all the apricot acreage here signed with the association.

An argument for the association is made by the San Jose Herald as follows:

"Without acreage enough to insure practical control of markets, the Association becomes nothing more than a big competitor, with many more like it, to gamble against each other for the market's favor—up than the others have to force it down."

"There have been many experiments, like the Farmers' Union and other large co-operative pools, which lacked all power to affect market price."

"With 75 to 90 per cent of their kind of fruit, the association can constantly improve on its good past record. With 50 or 60 per cent, it would soon dribble out to an expensive failure."

"The intelligence of the industry knows this perfectly. And for one not expert in the intricacies of the complex marketing problem to dispute these conclusions of all expert experience is simply foolish."

"Would a sane aviator undertake a trip to the north pole with petrol enough to just reach the pole, and depend upon the chance of finding a supply up there to get him back? 'Neither will the Association go on to certain failure, if the growers refuse to give the support without which success is impossible."

"This puts the issue squarely, and places responsibility where it belongs. The management and present membership are helpless to save the situation by any other means than persuading others to join."

"If you are sincere when you say you would rather join than lose the Association, you ought to know that the time for you to be of most help in saving it is to join at once, and by your example and influence bring enough others to give success."

"To put off joining to the last hour, with the foolish proposal that it just your acres are needed to make up the necessary amount, is to make a condition impossible of fulfillment."

"You should know that hundreds of others will probably say the same thing."

"The result cannot be known until after January 20, and reports from all over the state are sent in and tabulated, and then it is too late."

"You will do about as much to defeat this important enterprise by deferring signing to the last day as by not joining at all."

CINEMA MEN FAIL TO GET WILSON'S PICTURE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—Attempts of enterprising motion picture camera men to obtain photographs of President Wilson, by using the method which resulted in pictures of William Hohenzollern, former emperor, in his garden at Amerongen, reaching the world, were frustrated recently by White House secret service officers.

The camera men concealed themselves in a wagon load of hay which was driven slowly by the White House while the President was on the lawn in his wheelchair. After the photographers had convinced the officers they had not had time to make pictures they were allowed to go.

Roosevelt P-T. A. Meets
The January meeting of the Roosevelt P-T. A. was held Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock in Miss Mead's room.

After the regular business meeting, short reports of the last meeting of the Congress of Mothers were given by Mrs. Taylor and Mrs. Morris. These were followed by a discussion of the Code of Morals for Children.

The following subjects were presented: The Law of Health, by Christine Schenck; The Law of Self Control, by Mrs. Greer; The Law of Self Reliance, by Mrs. F. Taylor; The Law of Clean Play, by Mrs. Maxwell.

Easterners Enjoy Picnic

While people in the East were bundled up with heavy coats, caps and mittens, building warm fires and were shoveling paths through the deep snow, a jolly bunch of Wisconsin tourists, together with their California friends, numbering over fifty in the party, enjoyed a sumptuous picnic dinner under the mammoth live oak trees of Orange County Park, after which the elder folks enjoyed themselves exchanging many happy accounts of childhood occurrences, while the children frolicked in the sunshine.

Those present were Fred Snyder, St. Paul, Minn.; J. H. Snyder, Elkhorn, Wis.; Mrs. Wm. Riddell, Des Moines, Iowa; Wm. Limbird and Frank Kneiert of Troy Center, Wis.; Mr. and Mrs. Chas. W. Blott and family, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Loddell and family, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Smith, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Whitmore and family, George Whitmore, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Silverale and family, Mrs. R. L. Had Uncomfortable Trip

Mrs. Frank Ey, who has been in San Francisco since the last of December, visiting her son, Alfred Ey, and family, had a most uncomfortable ending to her trip.

The train upon which Mrs. Ey was traveling ran into a freight wreck of twelve cars near King City. After walking a distance, the passengers were taken on a local to Tempeleton, where they were transferred again to San Luis Obispo and after several more transfers, the people were landed at Los Angeles at 3:30 a. m. this morning.

Mrs. Ey found the P. E. depot closed but she waited about for the first car to Santa Ana and arrived at home shortly before 7 o'clock.

Master Minor Warner sang very sweetly the hymn song "Better than Silver and Gold."

A number of very interesting letters from Miss Viola Hill were read, telling of the work which she has been doing in the Women's Mission school at Ningpo, China, where she is a teacher.

The local society is indebted to Mrs. G. P. Hill of this city who is the mother of Miss Hill, for the letters and for curious and interesting kodak pictures, showing the mission work and other views of China.

After a short business meeting, the society adjourned to meet next month with Miss Smart.

At the close of the meeting, Mrs. Warner, who was assisted by Mrs. W. W. Kays in entertaining, served light refreshments.

Men's Club Meets

An interesting meeting was held at the First Baptist church last evening when the Men's Club of the church met in the regular monthly meeting.

Mrs. Theo. Winbiger having prepared a delightful program on "Women Composers of America."

Mrs. Lucy Evans opened the afternoon's program with a brief description of some of our best known women composers, mentioning among others, Mrs. H. A. Beach, Hood, Bond, whose "Perfect Day," according to General Pershing, was the most popular of all songs among the English and American Expeditionary Forces in France.

Mrs. Hayes then gave two vocal solos, "One Fleeting Hour," by Dorothy Lee, and "Sheena Varr," by Mrs. H. A. Beach.

Miss Gladys Burns favored with "At Twilight" by Gertrude Ross and "The Years at the Spring," another of Mrs. H. A. Beach's well known songs.

Miss Leonora Tompkins gave a unique piano solo, "Bride at Dawn," by Fannie Dillon in which seven distinct bird songs are featured.

Mrs. Emmaline Lord gave two charming vocal selections, "One Golden Day," by Fay Foster, and "His Lullaby," Carrie Jacobs Bond.

Another of Mrs. Beach's songs, "Elle et Moi," and "O Golden Sun," by Grace Freely, were given by Mrs. Sammis, after which all the members joined in singing "A Perfect Day."

Miss Ruth Armstrong was the capable accompanist for the afternoon.

At the conclusion of the program, Mrs. Wedell invited the members, and guests into the dining room, where tea and fancy cakes awaited them, and from thence into the breakfast room where Mr. Wedell, presiding at the punch bowl, served each lady with delicious fruit punch. This charming courtesy offered the members by the host and hostess, made the afternoon one long to be remembered.

Brown meets a friend with a good suggestion

One day Ben Brown boarded the train to visit relatives in a near-by city.

In the smoker he met a friend and in the customary way they began commenting upon the beautiful scenery.

The scenes from the window which delighted his companion were hazy to Brown with his glasses on and indistinct with them off. So in his anxiety he kept putting them on to read and taking them off to see the points of interest.

"Why," asked his friend, "don't you get a pair you can wear all the time—bifocals for both near and far vision?"

"Oh," remarked Brown scornfully, "I wouldn't wear those anyway; they have a heavy crack across the surface which spoils the looks and obscures the vision."

"But I don't mean the old-style bifocals that make a fellow look old. I mean the new invisible kind, Kryptoks, the modern two-vision lenses void of seams," rejoined his friend.

"But how and where can I get them?" asked Brown excitedly.

"Simply go to DR. WILCOX, Optometrist, 106 E. 4th St., where I obtained mine, and you'll never again have occasion to complain about faulty vision," replied his friend smilingly.

COOTIES FROM FRANCE FOUND IN OLD LETTER

MIFFLINTOWN, Pa., Jan. 13.—While looking through some old letters received when he was living in the trenches on the battle-fields of France, Walter Mingle of Farmington township had an uncomfortable reminder of some of the hardships he was compelled to endure while on foreign soil.

From the folds of one of the envelopes walked three of as healthy looking specimens of cooties as ever hid in a soldier's garment. There they were, having run the gamut of delousing stations, turning up in Juanita county, more than 300 miles from their point of origin, full of life after leaving their native land many months ago.

LONDON, Jan. 14.—American women will be interested to know that roast beef and potatoes, the most solid food, the plainest cooking are highly conducive to feminine beauty. Certainly this is the opinion of a famous specialist on beauty who numbers in his clientele some of the loveliest actresses and most pulchritudinous aristocrats.

YOUNG WIFE'S EXPERIENCE

Sickness and Suffering all Removed by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Plainwell, Mich.—"I had such severe pains in my back and head that I could hardly stand on my feet before my baby came. I could do just a little work and then had to sit down. I took doctor's medicine without relief and my mother advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. The first bottle helped me so much that I got more and now I have a son eight months old, the picture of health. I have also found that Vegetable Compound relieves pain at monthly periods. I tell all my friends who are suffering what it has done for me."

—Mrs. LILLIE DOUGLAS, 318 Plainwell, Michigan.

Young women who suffer as Mrs. Douglas did should not hesitate to give this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a trial, as the evidence that is constantly being published proves beyond question that this grand old remedy has relieved more suffering among women than any other medicine.

BOARDER TREES OUGHT TO BE WATCHED

The steadily increasing cost of operating and the advancing cost of land bring the farmers and fruit growers squarely up to the necessity of getting more and better produce from their acreage. For many years the Department of Agriculture, the numerous State Departments of Agriculture, and the Colleges of Agriculture have been consistently working toward the selection of superior strains and the elimination of the less profitable in practically all lines of agriculture, often with very gratifying results.

The selection, breeding up and pedigrees of all branches of the live stock industry is a good example of this scientific accomplishment in all varieties of cereals, potatoes, cotton, etc., the difference between loss and profit is often obtained by the elimination of inferior individuals and the propagation of accurately selected high quality specimens for parent stock. A definite increase in the percentage of starch in corn has been accomplished by the farmers of Illinois, according to Senator W. F. Chandler. The Agricultural College of Wisconsin produced the "Interbrook" barley, gaining for the barley growers of that district a definite increase in their profits. On an Arizona cotton plantation an observing grower selected one stalk of cotton, gathered the seed from it, planted it all and again selected the following year, and now after a few seasons the great Pima long staple cotton is worth millions to the cotton industry.

Too Many "Boarders"
Curiously enough, growers of orchards and vineyards and fruits have been slower than other branches of agriculture in this elimination and selection work. Occasionally an orchardist or vineyardist has planned far enough ahead to select stock from high type trees and vines, but the majority has simply bought from the most convenient source of supply or from the lowest bidder sufficient nursery stock to do the planting and let it go at that. The investment in an orchard or vineyard is much greater than in potatoes, corn, wheat or cotton, and should last twenty times as long. The absurdity of the situation is obvious, especially as all intelligent and observing fruit growers recognize that in the average orchard and vineyard there is beyond any possible question a certain percentage of non-profitable trees and vines, and, on the other hand, a few individual trees far excel the average of the orchards. Some records that have been conscientiously kept over a term of years have proven clearly that individual trees have been consistently heavy bearers while others have been much below the average.

There was a similar recession of the white-metal pieces just after the Civil War. That time they retreated into old stockings, old mattresses, old teapots and other homely harbors of thrift, and collectors who did not keep their stores too long reaped pretty premiums on their findings. On the present occasion not the old socks but the private melting pots of a free people are under suspicion. Silver bullion has gone up, and whatever a great war may be bad for, it is very good for the interests of Mr. Bryan's favorite product of the mines.

In the dairy business the latter class is butchered. In the orchard the situation is not so conveniently handled and the "boarder" trees usually enjoy a couple of decades of luxuriant ease while the highly productive minority struggles hard to bring the average up to a respectable tonnage for the entire orchard.

NEW YORK'S BROADWAY WANTING SILVER COINS

Possibly to the surprise of persons who have noted the prices of theater tickets, new clothes and approximations to a square meal on Broadway, that great thoroughfare utters all at once a wailing cry for silver coins of the realm. This is the first intimation from authoritative sources that people are still getting change under the white lights. It conveys the interesting information that the dime, which has never gone very far at the throbbing heart of Manhattan, has passed now out of the common sight, followed by the quarter and the still weightier half-dollar.

There was a similar recession of the white-metal pieces just after the Civil War. That time they retreated into old stockings, old mattresses, old teapots and other homely harbors of thrift, and collectors who did not keep their stores too long reaped pretty premiums on their findings. On the present occasion not the old socks but the private melting pots of a free people are under suspicion. Silver bullion has gone up, and whatever a great war may be bad for, it is very good for the interests of Mr. Bryan's favorite product of the mines.

If the dearth of small silver has any aspect which is grateful, the "drys" will find it in the fact that here at least is one thing for which prohibition cannot be blamed. In the old, generous days before the drought, one frequently told the waiter to "keep the change." But not even in his unslaked thirst would he urge anybody to melt away the treasures of the mint—New York World.

LIGHTHOUSE THAT FELL

There have been three or four Ed-dystone light-houses. Henry Win-stanley built one that was criticized by engineers as being unsafe. "It will stand the storm," he replied, "and I hope I may be in it when the first and worst gale sweeps down the coast." On the night of the first fierce equinoctial tempest the builder and some workmen went into the lighthouse. Next morning when the people along the shore looked for the light-house it was gone. The awful storm had swept everything away and the men had perished.—Boston Post.

ANAHEIM BOARD TO ADVERTISE SECTION

ANAHEIM, Jan. 14.—The subject of advertising occupied the principal attention of the Board of Trade at its regular monthly meeting. Every man present seemed to be strongly for putting Anaheim conspicuously to the front and keeping her there. At least everyone who had a word or more to say was enthusiastic for anything and everything that would advertise the city. Instances were recited by Bird V. Peebo and Harry D. Riley where Anaheim is not on the map, even an ordinary road map. This was too much for those present and they vowed for advertising matter that will tell people where Anaheim is located.

Geo. M. Ross, chairman of the advertising committee, called attention to the very excellent special edition that the Daily Herald is to issue in a short time and he said that it will be just what is needed at the present time.

Then a plea was made for a small folder that business people and others could enclose in letters that they are sending east, and that several thousand folders should be printed for distribution at the National Orange Show at San Bernardino. A. J. Gamber, a new member of the board, gave many practical suggestions for advertising in an interesting talk he made.

Will Prepare Folder
The advertising committee was directed to prepare a folder and ascertain the cost for several thousand and lay the same before the board of city trustees to ascertain if the same can be paid for out of the city advertising fund, which is expended on the advice of the Board of Trade. Chairman Ross said that the committee will get busy at once.

Mr. Ross also called the attention of the board to the necessity of having the country roads of the county all named and the names posted at the intersection of all roads. It was shown what great inconvenience is caused now to the traveler who is in search of a resident on any road. The discussion ended in a motion prevailing for the appointment of a committee of three to wait on the Board of Supervisors and ask that the work be done. Romaine Berger, vice-president, who was acting as chairman in the absence of Horace Benjamin, appointed Adams, Elliot and Eysagabroad as such committee.

Pastors Honorary Members
A communication was read from Rev. C. Blanchard Hatch of the Presbyterian church, who pointed out that the pastors of the city should be members of the Board of Trade, and every member present seemed to be of the same opinion and on motion of Chas. Eysagabroad the pastors of all the churches in town were extended a cordial invitation to join the board, and take part in its deliberations without the payment of dues.

Secretary Whitaker told of the meeting held at Fullerton last week which took steps to organize a northern Orange county association and said that an adjournment was taken until February 10, and that the Anaheim Board of Trade would be entitled to five delegates to that meeting. The delegates will be Fred Backs, C. H. Mann, Perry Adams, J. H. Whitaker and Chas. Eysagabroad.

Attention was called to the annual banquet to be held at Masonic temple tomorrow evening and a large number of tickets were sold.

GIVEN POISON OAK BY FIR CHRISTMAS TREE

San Diego Union: Beautiful, indeed, is the festive Christmas tree, but in its alluring foliage there may lurk the contagious properties of the dreaded poison oak, or ivy. George Sieverling, secretary of the San Diego board of health, stands witness to this unique condition. In removing such a tree from his home a few days ago, Mr. Sieverling's face came in contact with the evergreen branches. Next day he was attacked by severe itching, his face began to swell and in a short time he had developed all the symptoms of oak poisoning.

And experts in the health department, after close inspection of the sufferer, announced that he had that very thing. It is believed that the tree, in its native haunts, grew close to a poison oak bush, and that some of the poisonous properties remained with the tree when it was brought into San Diego for Christmas sale.

ADMONISHING THEM
"Looky here now!" sternly said Constable Sam T. Slackputter, the redoubtable sleuth of Petonia. "This diabolical practice of matching pennies on the sidewalk has got to stop! Why, dod-blast it, every few days when I come along walking my beat with my head high like an officer of the law or to carry his'n I fall over a bunch of you infernal young cusses and get my uniform all dusty!"—Kansas City Star.

SCALE YIELDING TO BATTLE OF FUMIGATORS

Fumigation in Orange county this winter, though held up somewhat on occasion by inclement weather and unfavorable "condition" of black scale, is proceeding satisfactorily, and, barring unfavorable developments, will be completed perhaps the latter part of February, according to E. L. Morris, county horticultural commissioner, today.

As regards black scale, Morris stated that the state of this pest for fumigation was favorable during August and part of September. Then ensued an unfavorable period, ending about two weeks ago, since when the numerous fumigating outfits in the county have again been waging a determined battle against this particular variety of parasite.

Scale is considered in an unfavorable condition for successful fumigation when an irregular hatch obtains and trees are infested with a combination of young and old scale as well as eggs.

Weather conditions are unfavorable for successful fumigation when temperatures are cold, or when orchards are muddy as a result of rain. These conditions have obtained at intervals this winter, and have been the cause of delays in the work. The heavy movement of oranges to the market has also at times prevented the fumigators from going ahead.

As far as red and purple scale are concerned, the fumigators have had uniform success, Morris stated.

Early For Estimate
It is too early at this time to give a satisfactory estimate on the results of this season's fumigation, according to Morris, although he stated that up to this time there is every indication that this winter's campaign has been successful.

The Orange County Fumigation Company, said to be the largest concern of its kind in operation in the county, is capable of handling from nine to eleven orchards at one time. In the northern end of the county several citrus associations have their own fumigation outfits in the field.

The man who owns property in town and who has but a few citrus trees he desires to have fumigated may have the work done by applying to the horticultural commissioner at the courthouse. This is a recent arrangement. Formerly the owner of only one or two trees could seldom find a fumigator to take care of his trees, as few fumigating outfits cared to trouble themselves with small jobs of this nature. Now, however, one or two fumigators have been engaged to take care of this class of work.

How to Stop a Cough

A constitutional remedy that removes the cause by building up the system, will stop a cough and break up a cold. These elements contained in Vinol—Beef and Cod Liver Peptones, Wild Cherry, Iron and Hypophosphites—soon create an energy that throws off the cold and prevents its recurrence.

Here is Proof that Vinol is a Great Remedy for Coughs and Colds

What You Must Have in the Tractor You Buy

Economy:-

A three or four-plow tractor not burn over fifteen gallons of distillate in a ten-hour run. It should be so perfectly cooled that a gallon of oil will be the maximum consumption in ten hours. Any greater amount is pure waste.

The Wallis, America's Foremost Tractor, built by the J. I. Case Plow Works, burns one gallon of distillate per hour. It consumes less than three-quarters of a gallon of oil per ten-hour run. It will plow twelve acres of land in ten hours at a cost in fuel of fifteen cents per acre. It is the most economical tractor manufactured.

Simple and Accessible Construction:-

No matter how perfect is a piece of machinery, there are times when it needs attention and repair. Your tractor must be simple, so you can make adjustments and repairs yourself. It must be easy to take down, so that when you need a mechanic he will be able to do his work rapidly. His time means money!

Every working part of the Wallis Tractor may be reached, through the port-holes on the sides of the crank case, through the transmission case cover, through the door into the clutch compartment. Every working part you can adjust yourself. It is simple beyond comparison. It is as fool-proof as a long-handled shovel.

Light Weight and Average Speed:-

It takes power to move weight. The more your tractor weighs, the less power you have left to pull your tools. It must be light, so it won't pack the soil. It must be light, to give you economy and at the same time reserve power. It must have a plowing speed of not less than two or more than three miles per hour. Fast enough for economy and slow enough to prevent tearing up your tools.

The Wallis weighs three thousand pounds. It weighs less than half as much as many of its competitors. It has plowing speed of two and one-half miles per hour. It is the lightest weight tractor in the world for the drawbar pull. It gets its traction from its speed and power and not from the excessive weight.

Operating Simplicity:-

You must have a tractor that you can operate as easily as you drive your car; you or your son or your ranch man. It must be so simple that a skilled operator is unnecessary. Any fifteen-year-old boy can learn to drive, operate and care for a Wallis Tractor in a day. Part of our Service is to teach you and your man to care for your tractor. It is our protection as well as yours.

WALLIS

AMERICA'S FOREMOST TRACTOR

Plenty of Reserve Power:-

The average pull in draw bar pounds of one twelve-inch plow sunk eight inches in the ground in average California soil is five hundred pounds. When a tractor with fifteen hundred pounds draw bar capacity pulls three plows it is pulling its maximum at all times. It is like driving your automobile fifty miles an hour every hour it runs. It cannot last long at that rate. If your tractor strikes a hard strata it is stuck. You must have reserve power to prolong the life of your tractor, to help you through the hard places, to keep down your repair expenses.

The average draw bar pull of the Wallis is twenty-five hundred pounds. This is equivalent to five twelve-inch plows. We recommend three twelves or three fourteens. The maximum drawbar pull of the Wallis is thirty-two hundred fifty pounds under official dynamometer test! Two hundred and fifty pounds more than the tractor weighs!

Complete Protection From Dust and Dirt:-

The greatest enemy of all tractors is the dust and dirt that collects in exposed working parts. The dust and necessary oil for lubrication forms a mixture that cuts like emery and soon wears down the metal. In the Wallis there is not a working part exposed—not a grain of dust can collect on any working part, for the entire mechanism is in a dust-proof metal case.

Self Lubrication:-

Grease cups are an annoyance. It takes time to turn them up. The grease hardens and does not lubricate. They fall off and are lost. You forget their existence and a bearing wears out. The more grease cups you have on your tractor the more trouble you lay up for yourself. Every working part of the Wallis runs in a bath of oil. It is self-lubricating throughout. There are only THREE necessary evils on the whole tractor—only three grease cups! And they stare you in the face, so you can't forget them.

Sturdy Construction:-

This means long life in the tractor you buy. It must be made of the best materials that can be found. Cast iron is cheap, so many manufacturers use it. But cast iron is brittle. It breaks easily and wears out rapidly. Investigate the materials in the tractor you buy. Keep away from cast iron gears and housings. The best materials cost a little more but they are cheapest in the long run. The Wallis Tractor is built of steel. There is not a piece of cast iron used in its construction. Even the motor block is built of gray iron, or semi-steel. The gears are heat treated and drop forged. The bearings are Timken and Hyatts. The cylinder walls are of steel and removable. It is built of the best materials money can buy. It is the tractor you will eventually buy! WRITE TODAY FOR A CATALOGUE.

DAIRY EXPERTS TO MEET MILK PRODUCERS JAN. 21

Advice on Cow Judging and Testing to Be Given by Men Who Know

Do you know how to pick out a good dairy cow?

Do you know the best and cheapest feed rations to produce the most milk?

Is the price of milk too high?

Can the dairymen get cheaper feeds through the Farm Bureau Dairy Department?

These are pertinent questions which will come up for consideration at the Farm Bureau dairy meet, next Wednesday afternoon at 2 p. m., sharp, at Raitt's dairy on South Bristol street, Santa Ana.

Several specialists in their respective lines have been secured by the Farm Bureau to address the Orange county milk producers.

The dairymen will be given an opportunity to pick Mr. Raitt's three highest producing cows out of a string of forty-five.

"Come and try your ability at selecting a good cow," says the Farm Advisor. "Mr. Raitt has production figures on every cow in his dairy and has his cows tested every month by the cow-testing department of the Farm Bureau."

H. S. Scribner, dairy expert of Los Angeles Farm Bureau, will demonstrate the important points in selecting a desirable dairy cow.

G. E. Gordon will talk on "Feed Rations and Silage for the Dairy Cow."

H. S. Hoard, formerly of Wisconsin, will speak on the "Improvement of the Dairy Herd by Breeding."

A member of the State Dairy Council will discuss the recent agitation by consumers on the high price of milk.

All dairymen and others interested in the production of milk are invited to attend this meeting.

MISSING MAN FOUND AFTER SEVEN YEARS

BEAVER, Pa., Jan. 14.—After almost seven years of continuous search, Francis P. Morrison, aged twenty-nine, son of J. P. Morrison, has been found. To the Salvation Army goes the credit.

Recently the parents were made happy by a letter from him, the first since he disappeared. While the family was living in Cleveland, O., the young man left for his work in a rubber plant on June 17, 1913, and never returned. To the ends of the earth his parents searched, using their savings.

The unwavering faith of the mother that time would bring explanation and the wanderer's return kept the search going.

Francis P. Morrison continually were turning up, but not the right one. The parents, after a time, moved to Pittsburgh, Pa., and recently to Beaver Falls, Mrs. Morrison took up the search through the Beaver Falls branch of the Salvation Army.

The youth's picture was published in the War Cry, and found its way to him in Tacoma, Wash. This cheering message was promptly wired to the parents, but details of his disappearance have not yet been received.

Wood of the American Woolen Co., says folks are not willing to wear clothes made of the cheaper wools. Oh, well, keep on using cotton.

Those Who Occupy Land Will Rule, Is Warning Sounded By Dean Hunt

"THE people who occupy the land will eventually inherit the earth. Eventually they will control the civilization of the nation, if we continue to have a democratic government."

This declaration applied to the Japanese situation has been made by Dean Hunt, head of the College of Agriculture, University of California.

A part of his address on "The Motive for Better Farming" given recently in Los Angeles at the Better Farming conference appeared in the Farm Bureau section of the Register last week. The remainder of the address reads as follows:

In a certain county in a certain state of a country beloved by all of us, one-half of all the children born outside the incorporated cities in 1917 had two Japanese parents, while one-third had two Mexican parents. It is a fair guess that these races are not far from twice as prolific as the white race which occupies the main city of this wonderful country. I venture that there is not a Protestant church in that city whose cradle roll will maintain its membership. It follows as a mathematical certainty that if conditions continue, the Japanese and Mexican races must outnumber the white race and it is only a question of time in which the principal city of this beautiful country, which is now conducting a better community conference, will have either a Japanese or a Mexican mayor, I am not quite sure which.

Importance of it. The people who occupy the land will eventually inherit the earth. If you grant this, it is of the utmost importance that the right kind of people occupy the land.

A large factor in the wonderful development of the United States and Canada in the past 300 years has been due to the fact that the right kind of people have occupied the land. They have furnished the right kind of people to the cities.

Far be it for me to decide who are the proper people to occupy the land, whether English, Irish, German, Negro, Mexican, Japanese, Chinese or Hindustanee. The main fact to get clear is that whoever they are, eventually they will control the civilization of the nation if we continue to have a democratic government. Self-determination and agriculture by peons will not work.

A successful system of agriculture in a country which has universal free public school education can only exist permanently where there is a successful and attractive family life in the open country.

Value of the Home. This idea of a successful family life, this idea that the home and not the individual is the essential unit, which seems to have become a bit old fashioned, has a wider sweep than the farm home.

The chief thesis of the late lamented Carl Parker was that most of the social and economic unrest came from people who had not been able to establish a successful home. In his judgment, it was the basis of I. W. W.-ism. Most of these men were unmarried, he contended, or were unsatisfactory. The cause may have been due to conditions of employment, or it may have been wholly or partly due to their own

EXPERIMENTS SHOW RESULTS, PLANTING AT VARYING DEPTHS

Recent experiments conducted by the New Jersey Agricultural Experiment station on the depth of planting as affecting the viability of seeds gave some interesting results. In one experiment five typical varieties of beans were planted to the depth of one, two, three and four inches, respectively, with the following results:

Depth	Plants	Viability	Pods per Plant
1 inch	295	50.70	19.80
2 inches	289	49.15	21.28
3 inches	212	36.05	20.06
4 inches	175	29.76	17.22

BROUGHT HOME FROM COLLEGE VERY SICK

ORANGE, Jan. 14.—E. J. Brown of Olive received a telephone message on Saturday from Dr. Stoughton of Claremont that his daughter, Clara, was very ill with the grippe. Mrs. Brown had been in Pasadena since last Thursday caring for her mother and sister, who have been ill. Mr. Brown motored to Pasadena Sunday morning, when he and Mrs. Brown drove on to Claremont. They found Miss Clara a very sick girl, having a severe case of the grippe, but was able to be brought to her home.

Milk Stew with Vegetables. 1 quart milk, whole or skim. 1 cup raw potatoes, cut in small pieces. A few leaves lettuce, spinach or other greens cut into small pieces or chopped.

A small piece of onion. 2 level tablespoons butter or bacon fat. Salt. Boil the potatoes till soft, and drain. Cook the other vegetables in so little water that they do not need to be drained. Add to the milk. Heat, add the fat and season with salt.

Almost any vegetables can be used for flavoring milk stews. Or a little fish or chopped dried beef may be used. In the case of very little children care should be taken not to serve any tough foods like large pieces of dried beef unless the mother has time to watch and see that they are well chewed.

So after all greens are the foundation of milk and eggs from which children get life-giving elements of growth and strength.

IN SHIPPING NURSERY STOCK SEND MANIFESTS

In order to facilitate the work of all of the county commissioners, the State Department of Agriculture suggests that it would be a wise plan for the commissioners in each county to notify the nurserymen in their counties to send proper manifests, as called for by law, in connection with the shipment of all nursery stock. This includes statement as to where the stock is grown.

AID BEING GIVEN TO TURKISH HAREM GIRLS

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—Service center has been established at Smyrna by the Young Women's Christian Association to aid in caring for thousands of Armenian girls freed from Turkish harems, according to a Smyrna cablegram. The message stated that many social service workers were needed in the Near East to care for the Armenian girls, who are destitute.

SPECIALIST ON PUREBRED SIRE SOILS POINTS OUT VALUE OF KNOWING UP TO 1,000 PER CENT

Advices Orchardists to Use Augers, not Judge from Surface Only

Much interest has been shown by the farmers in the field demonstration and talks on soils by Prof. J. W. Nelson, of the College of Agriculture, Berkeley.

Prof. Nelson is bringing soil facts to the farmer in a clear, forceful manner. At each of the field meets he has given a short history of the formation of the soil in question and has pointed out its needs in both a specific and general way.

"Most of our arid soils in this part of the country require more organic matter—more humus," he brings out. "This is the limiting factor of permanent agriculture, and must be supplied by adding manure and planting cover crops to turn under. Generally on a new field it is difficult to get a leguminous cover crop started the first year, but each successive year proves better, other conditions being equal."

"The Farm Bureau of the South, eastern counties could well afford to hire a man to buy up trainloads of manure from the stock ranches of Montana, Colorado, Arizona, Utah and other mountain states. There are thousands of tons going to waste there that should be shipped to this state," Prof. Nelson stated also that he knew of a man in San Bernardino county who has been buying manures in the mountain states for 26 years and shipping it to potato growers in Maine. Surely if Maine potato growers can afford to fertilize their fields with Montana manure, the citrus growers of Orange county can also afford it.

Nelson indicated that lime is a splendid adjunct to organic matter. It transforms the organic matter to humus, making it more available to the plant roots by assisting the soil bacteria in their function of decomposition.

"Every farmer who irrigates should own a soil auger and use it," he emphasizes the need of studying our subsoils more—that is where the roots are feeding. Too many farmers have a superficial knowledge of their soil conditions. They will regulate their irrigations by the appearance of surface soil instead of investigating the root area where the tree is demanding moisture and food.

The Farm Advisor urges all citrus men and also general farmers who have not heard Prof. Nelson's talk, to come to one of the remaining demonstrations:

POINTS WAY TO LESSEN LOSS OF PERISHABLES

Decay in the transportation of potatoes, cantaloupes and onions is primarily due to faulty methods of handling and refrigerating, according to the Bureau of Markets, United States Department of Agriculture. Marked reductions in losses have resulted from more careful methods of digging and grading potatoes, suitable temperature in refrigerator cars and storage houses, and by improvements in the handling of lettuce, such as the more complete removal of the lower leaves of each head in harvesting, and shipment in ventilated crates instead of closed hampers. It was found that the decay of strawberries in transit results largely from avoidable injuries inflicted in picking and washing and from inefficient refrigeration.

Vegetables from the south, shipped in properly constructed cars, cooled 1 degree an hour faster than those forwarded in cars of ordinary type, and deteriorated less than one-third as much, the Bureau reports.

MORE RATS AND RUIN

A rat will consume in one year at least one-half as much grain as a good hen. The hens turn the grain into eggs and meat. The rat turns it into more rats and ruin.

FORCING NOT DESIRABLE

Forcing pullets into egg laying in the sense that plants are forced or animals are fattened for market is not desirable. Give them good care, plenty of feed in variety, with no lack of greens, and they will develop naturally and become persistent layers.

Champion Woman Hunter Pleased With Idaho Job

Mrs. Ada Tingley and some of her victims.

Fertile Field and High Price of Pelts Makes Work Lucrative

BOISE, Idaho, Jan. 14.—Mrs. Ada Tingley is the champion woman hunter of predatory animals and is something of an expert trapper also. These accomplishments have not only brought her a big sum of money in the sale of furs and in bounties, but she is also employed as a trapper by the Bureau of Biological Survey, U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Predatory animals had been making great inroads on the stock of Idaho ranchers, who demanded that the United States do something to stop it, as the money loss was growing into huge sums monthly.

The government had heard of the prowess of Mrs. Tingley and at once offered her a job. She took it immediately and got busy. During the last seventeen months she has killed 273 stock-killing animals, such as mountain lions, wild cats, etc.

With the price of fur at its present height and animals plentiful, Mrs. Tingley says she is perfectly satisfied with her job. The ranchers also say they are satisfied with the manner in which she is ridding the state of the animals.

SEASON'S WORK IN CONTROL OF PESTS TO BE OUTLINED

Meetings are to be held at Tustin Schoolhouse on January 19th

What is planned to be the big meeting of the year for walnut growers of Orange county is to be held under the auspices of the Farm Bureau next Monday, January 19th, at Tustin grammar school.

Every effort has been made by Farm Advisor Wahlberg to bring to the walnut growers who will attend this meeting timely information necessary to the proper conduct and planning of the coming season's work in the groves.

Orchard problems and control of walnut pests will occupy the afternoon session, beginning at 2 p. m. At the evening session starting at 7:30, a discussion of irrigation and soil fertility will be taken up. This will be followed by an address on "The Future of the Walnut Industry" by a man who has been in close touch with the country's markets and demands for this crop.

The program for the day is as follows:

2 p. m.—Ralph E. Smith, "Walnut Pest Control for 1920;" Prof. H. J. Quayle, "Report of 1919 Spray Experiments."

7:30 p. m.—H. H. Warner, "Is the Farmer a Profiteer?" and "The Future of the Walnut Industry;" Dr. L. D. Batchelor, "Essentials of Orchard Management."

"All walnut men of the county are urged to attend both sessions," said the farm advisor. "The subjects are to be dealt with by men who are experts."

HOGS WITH LICE EAT MORE, PRODUCE LESS

Lice on hogs are extremely expensive. The fact was proved in experiments recently concluded by the Bureau of Animal Industry of the United States Department of Agriculture. It was shown that lousy hogs not only consume more food and make less meat but that they are uneasy or restless, a condition that doubtless lessens the pork producing abilities of the animals. When not eating, the lice-ridden swine spend most of their time rubbing themselves or running around. If strangers came near they were noticeably excited. This did not hold true of the hogs free from lice.

Three experiments, each extending three months or more and with from 20 to 30 hogs as subjects, were conducted. In one experiment it cost exactly $1 a hundred pounds of pork to feed the hogs with lice than it did to feed the clean animals. In another, it cost $1.50 more, and in the third, $2.94 more.

TWO ALARMS CALL OUT FIRE FIGHTERS

ORANGE, Jan. 14.—A fire alarm turned in at 11:30 Monday night proved to be at the W. H. Ralls home on Parker and Chapman streets.

From a trash fire caught the rabbit hutch and bee hives, also a small chicken coop, but the prompt arrival of the fire department prevented the blaze from spreading, and the loss was slight.

At 11 o'clock yesterday morning another alarm was turned in from back of Decker's store which also proved to be a trash fire, which spread to a small out-building, but this was also extinguished before any damage resulted.

FORDSON Tractor

Mr. Wheeler of Olive, says:

In regard to the Fordson Tractor purchased by Mr. Pyne, I have had the care and working of same. Have done 880 hours of work, and I find that it equals 550 days of work with a team. Have not had to touch the bearings up to this time. I have run other tractors, but find this superior to any other tractor I have used. I would recommend this tractor to any other tractor that I know of, being dust proof, it will stand up a great deal longer than any other tractor.

PE-RU-NA

THE REMEDY FOR EVERYDAY ILLS

"I have used Pe-ru-na for years in cases of colds and catarrh. The results have been good, in fact, more than you claimed. Have also taken Lacupia and can easily say it is one of the best blood purifiers I have ever used."

Mr. J. F. Arendt

For Catarrh and Catarrhal Conditions

The evidence of one man like Mr. Arendt is more convincing proof to you of the merits of Pe-ru-na than any written words of ours. For fifty years Pe-ru-na has been the standby of the American family for diseases due to catarrhal inflammation of the mucous membranes lining the organs of the body. Thousands, like Mr. Arendt, have proved the effectiveness of Pe-ru-na for coughs, colds, nasal catarrh, stomach, bowel and liver disorders or any disease characterized by a catarrhal condition. If your suffering is the result of a catarrhal disorder try Pe-ru-na. It is a true, tried medicine.

habits or attitude of mind. No matter whether it is cause or effect, many of these I. W. W.'s are to be pitied rather than condemned. They need to be in asylums rather than in jails.

I speak of the rank and file, not of the leaders. Too often the leaders are agitators who live off these unfortunates and need the heavy hand of the law in many, if not all, cases. The exceedingly false sex theories of the Bolsheviks is a significant aspect of this question. Notwithstanding that the criminal practices of these agitators should suffer the full penalty of the law, nothing is to be gained by not recognizing the fundamental nature of the problem.

A New Slogan.

Discontent flourishes largely in proportion to the inability of the people to rear and educate families. The slogan that the world owes each individual a living, which is false because the world does not owe anybody anything, should be changed to read "Society owes it to itself in its own interest to create those conditions by which it is possible for thrifty, intelligent, hard working people to rear not less than three healthy, up-standing, intelligent children." A permanent Americanization under any other plan is not possible. Certain it is that America will be a very different country if, in the language of H. G. Wells, food becomes "the skimmed production of a fringe of inferior workers."

About a year ago, I had occasion to write:

"No nation, using the word nation as a synonym for race, can long survive in this new age under such conditions. The land will of course remain, and conceivably the political institutions of the country may continue without material modification, but one race of people must continue to succeed another unless the efficiency of production is maintained."

Making Estimate.

'How often this rotation of races may occur, must of course, depend upon the verities of forces and circumstances too complex to permit of prophecy. In general, however, we may not be far wrong in estimating the tendency at three generations or about once in every hundred years.

"It is interesting to note in this connection that in three centuries, the United States has had four groups of immigrants following each other in rather definite successive waves, namely: (1) English, (2) Irish, (3) Teuton and Scandinavian and (4) a mixture of races from the Balkan and other Mediterranean countries, including also the Poles. It is also significant that while each group sought the land, their grandchildren occupy the cities. The colored race has only been free about fifty years."

Which way are events trending—toward building up the cities at the expense of the country, or are they towards the establishment of better and more prosperous rural life? I believe the latter, but then I would sooner be an optimist and be wrong some of the time than be a pessimist and always be right. In supporting my optimism, I invite your attention to certain legislation occurring during the past five years.

Legislative Acts.

Four legislative acts, three by congress and one by the State legislature, are taken in their entirety, of the greatest significance. I refer to the Rural Credit Act, establishing federal land banks, the Smith-Lever Act, under which farm bureaus have been established, the Smith-Hughes Act, providing for instruction in agriculture, home economics and mechanical training in secondary schools and making it mandatory on state boards of education to provide such instruction, and fourth, the action of the State legislature providing for land settlement. These four activities are complementary and all lead to better farming and better rural life.

The Rural Credit Act provides a method by which the savings of the people may be invested in agriculture, just as heretofore they have been invested in corporations which have built railroads, factories and great office buildings. Heretofore, when a man invested in bonds, his money went to make life easier in the city. Now, when he invests in bonds, it may make life more comfortable in the country.

Basis of Plan.

The Rural Credit Act is based upon the fact that since everyone is born into the world without credit, every farm in America must be refinanced at least three times in a century. Under this act, a man may borrow fifty per cent of the value of his real estate and twenty per cent of his improvements and pay it all in annual or semi-annual amortized payments during twenty to thirty years. He can pay both principal and interest at the interest rate he formerly paid on money which he borrowed. It enables a thrifty, capable renter to become a land owner and it enables an agricultural college graduate to look forward to the time when he may own a farm.

I am perhaps too close to the work conducted under the Smith-Lever Act to speak judicially concerning it. This act has made it possible to bring to the farmer's very door the latest information concerning his calling, and it has also enabled him through the farm bureaus, to organize one of the most efficient and representative of concerted action among farmers in America.

Smith-Hughes Act.

Supplementary to the Smith-Lever Act is the Smith-Hughes Act. It is interesting that during the Civil War, President Lincoln signed the Morrill Act requiring, among other things, the establishment of colleges of agriculture and mechanical arts, out of which have grown the great state universities of this country.

While the nation has supported higher education, therefore, for more than half a century, the federal government never had any jurisdiction over the secondary instruction until during the World War President Wilson signed the Smith-Hughes Act. What the Morrill Bill did for higher education the Smith-Hughes Act will in time do for secondary education. Through instruction in agriculture in secondary schools, especially through boys' and girls' clubs and project work, young men and women are becoming leaders in the breeding of domestic animals, in increasing the yields of crops and eventually, it is believed in the creation of successful homes.

And now, finally, the State has gone farther and created a system of land settlement which has for its fundamental aim the placing on the land only those people who from training and temperament are likely to succeed. It also aims to create conditions under which success is reasonably possible.

Durham Settlement.

On approximately 6000 acres in the Durham settlement, 120 families have, since June, 1918, taken up holdings. Of these holdings 25 consist of two acres or less and are provided to meet the needs of married farm homes. Dr. Mead reports: "When this property was purchased, it was occupied by tenants and hired labor. Today 120 families live in their own homes and till their own fields. In these homes there are over two hundred children." In this settlement, there is no Japanese question, no Hindustani menace and no hobo problem; at least, not yet. What the future may develop, only the future can answer.

For the sixty years ending 1910, about 1500 farm families had been added to California annually. The number added yearly has not varied materially throughout this period except during the Civil War when the numbers were, of course, greatly reduced.

This addition of 120 families to Butte county is not important, therefore, from the standpoint of numbers.

Real Importance.

Its importance lies in the recognition that an unconscious farmer is not an asset to the State; that a farm is not a place for a permanent bachelor; that the fertile land of the United States must be reserved for those who wish to rear and educate children as well as to raise food and clothing materials; and that it is in the interests of the people of the cities, as well as those of the country, that the conditions of ownership and development shall be such as to cause intelligent, capable Americans to seek homes in the open country.

If we are compelled to admit that food and clothing can be produced only under conditions requiring a submerged foreign laboring class, then we must make the further admission that democracy will fail and Americanization is a will of the wisp. The primary purpose for better farming is not necessarily cheap food, however important that may be.

But the primary purpose is a virile educated citizenship.

Eight Years Trouble Gone and Feels Fine Every Day Since Taking Tanlac.

"Since I commenced taking Tanlac all my troubles have left me and I feel better than I have in eight years," said J. Curry, a well known flagman for the Key Route System, who lives at 577 West Eleventh street, Oakland, Cal.

"I had been troubled with a bad case of indigestion so long that it had become chronic," continued Mr. Curry, "and I had little or no appetite, for I knew if I ate anything I would be troubled for hours afterwards. I could hardly retain a thing. I had eaten and about an hour after I had taken a few bites belching spells would come on me and I would have a bad taste in my mouth. I was troubled with constipation and had to take a laxative almost every day, and one time I had such a bad spell of lumbago that I had to lay off work a whole week. At night I could never sleep good, but would roll and tumble from one side of the bed to the other and when morning came I felt so tired I had to drag myself off to work."

"I started taking Tanlac, as I had read so much in the papers about it, and I will say right here it certainly measures up to everything the people say it will, for after eight years of troubles it has put me back on my feet in fine health. I can eat anything set before me with no fear at all, for my digestion is perfect and I have no trouble retaining everything I have eaten, and the bad taste has left my mouth. My constipated condition has been greatly relieved and I haven't had an attack of lumbago since I started taking Tanlac. I sleep like a log eight or nine hours every night. I can do as hard a day's work as any man, and I have more strength and energy about me than I have had in years. I give all the credit for my fine condition to Tanlac, and say it is the most dependable medicine I have ever heard of."

Tanlac is sold in Santa Ana by Rowley Drug Co., in Fullerton by G. W. Finch, in La Habra by R. H. Hilbert, in Huntington Beach by Rigdon's Pharmacy, in Orange by Dittmer's Mission Pharmacy, in Placentia by A. J. GREENS AS POULTRY FOOD BASIS URGED

Whatever may have been the past few years' experience with hens, it is surely desirable that plans for getting back to pre-war production and then largely increasing the output, should now be worked out by the farmers as well as city and suburban residents.

There can be no question but that in the light of the past two years' experiences in feeding and in culling, that poultry and egg production may again become a profitable side line on farms, and a real help in cutting the cost of food in cities and thickly settled districts.

Things that Will Help.

Two important factors that will help to win food and profits from the poultry flocks, that have become emphasized since war prices have been soaring, are better feeding and careful culling.

Better feeding does not necessarily mean more expensive feeding. With wheat denied them many poultry raisers began to experiment with other grains and other foods. Barley was perhaps the most used substitute and the results were so satisfactory that there seems to be no necessity of going back to wheat even if the price should drop to a reasonable figure.

Also because it became necessary to economize in feeding grains which rose in price in sympathy with wheat, the feeding of greens was brought to the notice of egg producers more emphatically than ever before.

The fact remains, that green feed should be the basis of poultry foods.

Better Culling.

When the campaign of culling the farm flocks began in Missouri how many farmers would have believed it if they had been told at the outset that 50 per cent of their flocks were loafers? And yet that is just what they were proven to be.

How many California farmers comprehend what it means to have one-half their flocks of hens arbitrarily culled out and sent to market and still gather practically the same number of eggs. How many commercial egg raisers are sure that 90 per cent of their hens are good layers? Or 75 per cent? Or only 50 per cent?

RATHER STAY IN JAIL THAN HAVE TO WORK

ERIE, Pa., Jan. 14.—Judge Rissler of the other day sentenced Thomas Moran, an aged man, to an indefinite term in the Western Penitentiary when Moran refused an offer to be released if he would go to work and pay his fine of $200. Moran was arrested on a charge of aiding two others to rob a store. When the men were sentenced they cleared him of the charge.

ARREST IS EXPECTED FOR DEATH OF GIRL

MODESTO, Cal., Jan. 13.—Arrests are expected shortly in the mystery death of 19-year-old Mayme Helm, who was found dead yesterday in a room in a hotel at Waterford, a small town twelve miles east of Modesto.

It is the belief of the coroner and Sheriff Dallas that the girl was operated upon and that she died from an overdose of chloroform.

Romeo J. Paslaquia, Modesto business man, involved in the case, was given a rigid examination by the district attorney last night but he insists that he knows nothing about the case.

It is expected that the stomach of the girl, which was sent to Stockton for analysis, will show the cause of death. In the meantime all connected with the case are being closely watched by officers.

Orange Happenings

ORANGE, Jan. 14.—The King's Daughters held a pleasant and successful meeting on Monday afternoon at the home of the president, Mrs. E. T. Lee, 205 East Palmyra avenue. Thirteen members and three visitors were present, two of the latter becoming members of the circle.

Great need of clothing for young babies, especially among the Mexicans was reported and members were asked to contribute such little garments of material for making them.

Members were also asked to solicit orders for making aprons, the material to be furnished by the purchaser.

The next meeting of the circle will be held on Monday, January 26, at the home of Mrs. Ellis, 205 South Glassell street, and will take the form of a dime social. Refreshments will be served and a program presented. The names of the members having the social in charge are a sufficient guarantee that it will be worth attending: Mrs. Ellis, Mrs. Pierce Hyle, Mrs. Cunningham, Mrs. E. L. Meyer, Mrs. John T. Lee. Everybody is cordially invited.

The two new members received are Mrs. Bradshaw and Mrs. Cunningham. Mrs. Bradshaw was one of the original founders of the circle in Orange thirty years ago or more. She has not been connected with the society for a number of years, but is most heartily welcomed back. All new members are gladly received as their help along various lines of work is greatly needed.

A seven o'clock dinner was served last evening by W. O. Hart and J. F. Craemer to the members of the Daily News force and others of the printing craft of Orange and their "other half." The large room recently completed for the storage of print paper had been set with two long tables, upon which dinner was served to thirty or more. "Sir" Lenz and "Monk" Everett had charge of the arrangements and the serving of the meal and proved their efficiency as waiters as well as newspaper men. Turkey, dressing, gravy, sugar corn, baked potatoes, olives, celery, radishes, pickles, cranberries, hot rolls, coffee, mince pie, ice cream, apples nuts, raisins, cigars and mints were served to the following:

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Armstrong, Mr. and Mrs. Jay Palmer, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Poynter, Mr. and Mrs. Graham Albright, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Meadows, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Craemer, Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Hart, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Hagthorpe, E. S. Palmer, George Howard, Miss Helen Miller, Miss Margaret Blank, Miss Ida Edson, Miss Mae Manatt, George Harms, Harold Everett and Wilber Lenz.

Mrs. Byrde Clouser departed for the East yesterday morning via the Santa Fe, planning to meet Mr. Clouser in Chicago. Mr. Clouser has valuable land holdings in the East and is being unable to leave there, asked Mrs. Clouser to come to him and assist in the business.

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Peterkin of Montreal, Canada, are in Orange as guests of Mr. Peterkin's brother, W. H. Peterkin and family of East Valencia street. Sunday Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Peterkin and Mrs. W. H. Peterkin spent the day in Pomona visiting the E. W. Browning family and Mr. and Mrs. Busey. Mr. and Mrs. E. Smith from near Great Bend, Kansas, arrived Monday morning and have taken apartments at 151 South Orange street, intending to spend the winter in Orange. Mr. and Mrs. Smith are the parents of Mrs. Fox of South Orange street.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Robel, Jr., and son, Raymond, of Mankato, Minnesota, have arrived here and will spend two months at the Dr. Chapline home. Mr. Robel is a brother of Mrs. Chapline.

STILL TWENTY-THREE WARS NOW GOING ON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—Peace on earth is still far from being an actuality.

After taking an "inventory," Gen. Marlborough Churchill, chief of the military intelligence department of the war department, announced there are still twenty-three wars in progress abroad.

The most important of these wars or states of war are those of Bolshevik Russia against every country in Europe except Germany, and the case of the United States, which is enjoying only a cessation of arms against Germany.

HAVE COLOR IN CHEEKS

Be Better Looking—Take Olive Tablets

If your skin is yellow—complexion pallid—tongue coated—appetite poor—you have a bad taste in your mouth—a lazy, no-good feeling—you should take Olive Tablets.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—a substitute for calomel—were prepared by Dr. Edwards after 17 years of study. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color.

To have a clear, pink skin, bright eyes, no pimples, a feeling of buoyancy like childhood days you must get at the cause. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act on the liver and bowels like calomel—yet have no dangerous after effects. They start the bile and overcome constipation. Millions of boxes are sold annually at 10c and 25c. Take one or two nightly and note the pleasing results.

ITS POLICY IN PAVING HALTED BY-PASSES IS POINTED OUT

The policy of the state highway commission, with regard to the upkeep of detours while highway construction is in progress, is outlined in a letter addressed to the secretary of the San Joaquin county grand jury, in answer to a resolution taking the commission to task because of alleged failure properly to maintain temporary detours.

Where it is feasible, the commission says, it makes it a point to take care of traffic by providing temporary roads adjacent to the state right-of-way. When county roads are used, however, the commission contends, the duty of maintenance devolves upon the county government, as the state department has no jurisdiction over such roads.

Commission's Letter
The letter, in part, follows:
Where it is feasible the commission provides or, in case of contract work, requires its contractor to provide for the taking care of traffic on the section of state highway under construction, either along the side of the work in progress or by suitable by-passes adjacent to the state highway right-of-way.

However, in many cases the portion of state highway under construction must be entirely closed to travel during certain periods of time, and in many instances, owing to the topography of the country or the objections of adjacent land-owners, by-passes cannot be provided.

Accordingly, it then becomes necessary, from time to time, to direct traffic over tributary county roads.

Must Do Repairing
This department has no jurisdiction over the latter, and it devolves upon the county authorities to keep these detours in proper condition during the temporary periods while state highway construction is being performed.

This department is not authorized to expend state funds in scraping, sprinkling, graveling and otherwise maintaining county roads used temporarily as detours.

Much difficulty arises from the fact that county roads, sometimes of only secondary importance, when used as detours, suddenly become of primary importance and bear a burden of traffic for which they are not adapted; and, despite all that the local supervisors can do, cannot be made or kept entirely adequate for the unusual use to which they are subjected.

Public Gets Impatient
Moreover, the motoring public, grown used to modern highways, is impatient of any other kind, and frequently complaints are made of detours no worse than many main traveled roads were in the past.

Despite the best efforts of the state and local authorities, the public will have to undergo some inconvenience as long as state highway work is in progress.

Consequently, this department can only strive to do as it has done in the past, namely, take care of traffic within or adjacent to the state highway right-of-way as well as funds and circumstances will permit.

ORANGE Jan. 14.—Although agreeing that the city paving program will be pushed to completion under the present plans, the city trustees have decided to continue the matter pending the action of the county in regard to paving the outside districts.

Inasmuch as the greater part of the city's paving is intended to connect with outside paving not yet constructed, the trustees considered it advisable to wait on the county work in the expectation of getting more favorable bids on the work from contractors bidding on county work. The Villa Park and Fairhaven paving districts are at present waiting on the disposition of the proposed county bond issue, so that action in those districts seems some distance away.

After securing an opinion from the city attorney on the subject of whether a city of the sixth class could appropriate funds to be devoted to paying a part of the expense of paving, the trustees decided there is no practicable method aside from a bond issue, which they do not think desirable. Action on the paving question was continued to January 26th.

The subject of a city hall bond issue was up for discussion and the opinion prevailed that action toward calling a bond issue for a city hall should be taken. The president was instructed to call a meeting of the advisory committee for January 26.

A resolution ordering work on the sewer on South Grand street in the Nutwood district was adopted.

ANAHEIM HERALD USING NEW PRESS

Following the announcement a few days ago that E. J. The Herald has been buying ahead and addition of this character of equipment indicates a rapid increase in circulation.

REFUSES TURKEY TO OBTAIN SOAP RATION

ABERDEEN, S. D., Jan. 14.—Chris Dubi, held in the county jail here, has an appetite for soap. Dubi refused a turkey dinner and begged a ration of laundry soap. Authorities are at a loss to know how to provide this select diet for Dubi, arguing the city will not allow the bill for laundry soap which Dubi requires. Dubi was taken into custody here some time ago as mentally unsound. He is said to have relatives in Wisconsin, and is supposedly a citizen of that state. Wisconsin refuses to care for the man. Under the South Dakota laws Dubi cannot be sent to the State asylum.

CAN GROW BULBS IN THE UNITED STATES

The production of Dutch bulbs in the United States has not exceeded $25,000 worth in any one year, while demand is for about two million dollars' worth.

The principal reason for this limited production is not from lack of an abundant acreage of suitable soils or of congenial climatic conditions, but rather because the price of labor has been too high in this country to grow them profitably in competition with the cheap labor across the Atlantic.

California growers of flowers, both commercially and for home beautification, are becoming better informed of the merits of bulbs in the home flower gardens and therefore the demand promises to increase rapidly. The growing of tulips and hyacinths require somewhat more expert knowledge and better climatic and soil conditions than do the narcissi family, the latter being easily grown and propagated in almost any kind of soil.

Flower clubs are discussing and studying bulb culture at their meetings, a fact that promises well for more extended plantings. A recent governmental bulletin of 50 pages entitled "Commercial Bulb Culture in the United States," is now available and will be sent to a limited number of persons who are interested in bulb culture. Write to the Department of Agriculture at Washington, D. C., for bulletin No. 797, mentioning this paper.

ARABIC DICTIONARY A WEIGHTY VOLUME

The ponderous dictionaries of Europe, even the famous many-volumed etymological index of Larousse, which is the monumental work of all modern tongues, are more than surpassed by the Arabic dictionaries of 500 years ago, which are still the great authority for students in that language.

The Arabic dictionary most used by scholars who are familiar with no other language is in twenty quarto volumes and weighs close to 100 pounds. There is a fifty-pound, ten volume abridgement of it, presumably for use at home. This and practically all the Arabic dictionaries were made in the time of the great Harun-al-Raschid.

Each of the words that have been familiar in the daily life of the mad Arabs for centuries has an enormous number of synonyms. The lion, for example, was feared by villagers and hunted, not only for sport, but as a matter of necessity. Therefore in the Arabic dictionary the lion has more than a hundred different names. The camel was the sole means of transportation across the thirsty deserts and is characterized in 122 different ways. But above all the horse and the sword were the two great stand-bys of the Arab. There are more than 200 different words that convey ideas of "horse" and "sword." All other familiar words, such as tent, flocks, herds, water, woman, sun and air, have long lists of synonyms that are interchangeable and in constant use. This affords some slight explanation why Arabic dictionaries are of so large a size.—New York Sun.

JOHN WAS AWFULLY BUSY

He was wrapping up an armful of shoes when the ad man called and a lot of deeply interested women were waiting for their turn to buy footwear. "If you want an advertisement from me you'll have to write it yourself," he said. "You'll find the prices marked on the shoes. Just put in about a half dozen of the prices and tell the people to hurry if they want a good choice. I'll leave the rest to you." Now isn't that the limit?

John has a big shoe sale going, you know. Selling out a lot of broken lines. Some of them run mostly to the smaller sizes and some of them to extra large sizes and on these broken lines John has marked prices that are almost a shock to the nervous system after seeing some of the big prices people charge for shoes. Imagine buying good, solid leather shoes nowadays for .98c. But this is an ad, not a treatise on Economics. Here are some of the prices the ad man found:

One Lot Ladies' and Misses' Low Shoes, all good numbers, worth around $3.75 a pair, on sale at .98c

Ladies' and Misses Dress Shoes, in lace or button, real $4.25 to $5.50 values, at $2.98

John said he wanted a cut of some of his fine ladies' shoes in this space but it seems to me that these other prices are much more interesting.

Boys' Shoes, black or tan, at $2.98
One lot children's tan scufflers, all sizes up to 12, big value at $2.95
Misses' brown lace oxfords, real $4.50 shoes going at $3.00
Boys' heavy gunmetal school shoes, indestructible sole, leather insole $3.00
Ladies' Leather Comfort shoes, plain toe, vici kid, $5.00 shoes for $3.95
Boys' U. S. Army last shoes, tan elk, heavy sole, Hamilton Brown's best shoe. Sizes 2 1/2 to 5 $4.50
Sizes 12 to 2 $4.25

Fine Lot Men's Gunmetal Shoes, in lace or button. going at $3.45

Men's Tan Shoes, in lace or button—good run of sizes, and biggest bargain ever, at $3.95

Big lot of Boys' Low Shoes at $1.98
Ladies' high top gray kid shoes with flexible sole and Louis heel. Very stylish and absolutely a $6.00 shoe in this sale at $4.95
Ladies' brown kid, 9 inch brown cloth top, Cuban heel for only $4.95
Ladies' black vici kid shoes. Solid leather 10-inch top, very fine and fashionable, in this big sale at $6.25

JAPANESE SUED FOR $600 IN LEASE CASE

Alleging that no part of the amount alleged to be due on a lease of property at Bolsa has been paid, H. Beatty and his wife, Sarah M. Beatty, will seek a judgment of $600, with interest, from H. Shiroishi, through a suit which was on file in superior court today. According to the complaint, which was filed through Attorneys Head & Rutan of this city, the plaintiffs leased the land in question to Shiroishi on October 21, 1918. It was agreed, the plaintiffs alleged, that the defendant would pay $300 to Mrs. Beatty on December 1, last, and $300 additional on December 31. The plaintiffs asked judgment of $300 and interest at 7 per cent since December 1, 1919, and $300 with interest since December 31, 1919.

$80 THEFT CHARGE DISMISSED BY COX

Holding that the evidence was insufficient to warrant Albert C. Piles of Compton, being held, Justice of the Peace John B. Cox dismissed a charge of robbery, and Piles was free today. The complaint was sworn to by J. W. Davis, also of Compton. The two men were employed in laying pipe lines on the Irvine ranch. Both occupied the same room in a workmen's dormitory on the ranch, according to the testimony. Returning to Compton on the evening of December 24, Davis found that his pocket-book containing $30 in currency and five strike benefit cards in the Boiler-maker's Union of San Pedro, valued at $10 each, was missing. Davis told the court. Davis testified he knew the pocket-book was in the over-coat as it hung in the room at the dormitory, just prior to the two men leaving for Compton. Davis found the pocket-book several days later, devoid of its contents, in the yard outside the dormitory, he testified. Attorney S. M. Reinhaus, defended Piles and Deputy District Attorney W. F. Menton prosecuted.

Butcher On Point Of Shooting Cows Is Bitten By Bull Dog

There is a bull dog on the ranch of Fred Hutter, near Santa Ana. This bull dog may or may not have had a certain degree of canine sympathy for several of Hutter's cows, which Joseph Seichter, owner of a combination grocery and butcher shop at 1027 E. Fourth street, was about to slaughter. At any rate, when Seichter went to Hutter's place and called to a woman to bring him a gun wherewith he might dispatch the bovines in question, the bull dog made a dive for Seichter's face, inserting his incisors securely into Seichter's nose. Only the fact that the dog was chained prevented severe injury being done. As it was, Seichter, according to his story today, lost nearly a quart of blood. A physician was summoned and Seichter's wounds were dressed. Seichter stated that he had made more than a dozen visits to the Hutter place, but that the dog had never shown signs of antagonism.

DENY MANDATE WRIT AGAINST JUDGE WEST

Because the court of appeals refused to issue a writ of mandate compelling Superior Judge Z. B. West to sign a bill of exceptions, asked for by McClellan B. Hiestand, who took an appeal from a judgment entered against him in a suit to quiet title to five acres of land east of Anaheim, George Searly and his wife, Emma A. Searly, today were winners in a suit which their attorney, Walter E. Eden, of the firm of Eden & Koensel of this city, had pending for close to two years. The action of the appellate court in refusing the writ finally disposes of the action. Hiestand's appeal, which was undertaken by Attorney William J. O'Brien, of Los Angeles, was based on the contention that Judge West was in error in deciding Searly had a right to declare forfeited a sales contract entered into between the plaintiff and defendant.

2 MEN CHARGED WITH GAMBLING ARE FREED

Insufficient evidence was introduced to warrant Gonzalo Lamas and Timoteo Esparza being convicted on charges of gambling, Justice John B. Cox held, and the accused were at liberty today. Lamas and Esparza were arrested by Deputy Chas. Holbrook and Constable Jesse Elliott at a billiard hall between Fullerton and Anaheim. It was charged that the defendants pitched quarters at a hole in the wall of the billiard hall, but the court held it had not been shown that the two men were gambling. Deputy District Attorney A. P. Nelson prosecuted the case.

2 FACE PRISON FOR ALLEGED $5 THEFT

Thought they were alleged to have stolen articles whose total value probably did not exceed $5, Corney Roberts and Jim Stanley this afternoon faced the possibility of going to state's prison on charges of burglary. At 11:45 a. m., today, their fate went into the hands of a jury in the court of Superior Judge Est. The court, in his instructions, called the jury's attention to the fact that if the evidence proved beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendants entered the house in question with intent to commit burglary, a verdict of guilty must be returned. At 1 o'clock this afternoon the jury had not come in. The complaint against Roberts and Stanley was sworn to by J. O. Godinez, and charged them with entering his house at San Juan Capistrano. The defendants are accused of stealing a razor, a pair of socks, a ring and a silk handkerchief. On the stand today Godinez testified he tracked Roberts and Stanley for a distance of more than a mile. Miguel Yorba, on the stand, Godinez' house.

Attorney H. C. Head, of the firm of Head & Rutan of this city defended Roberts and Stanley. Head was appointed by the court. Deputy District Attorney A. P. Nelson prosecuted the case. Those on the jury were John Hanson, A. B. Tiffany, D. D. Fields, William J. Althaver, Henry Lothrop, H. Hillard, A. J. Whitman, Joseph Proctor, Samuel S. Jackson, James McMillen, J. P. McCarter and L. R. Whitney.

NEWSPAPER MAN OF ANAHEIM IS SUED

With S. B. Kaufman of this city as his attorney and through a suit which was on file in justice court here today, R. W. Rogers, of San Francisco, an expert newspaper press erector, will seek from R. W. Ernest, owner of the Anaheim Plaindealer, a judgment of $129.25, alleged to be due for services rendered in connection with installing for the defendant a press formerly owned by the Register. It was recited in the complaint that during the period beginning on or about December 9, last, and continuing until December 23, Rogers dismantled the press in question here and moved it to Anaheim where he erected the press and made what repairs were necessary. According to the complaint, Ernest agreed to pay Rogers "the reasonable value for the work" and it was alleged that such reasonable value was $298. The sum of $268.75 was paid by Ernest, the complaint alleges. Rogers declares he has asked Ernest for the balance alleged to be due, but that the amount has not been forthcoming.

ASK WOMEN TO GET FARM INFORMATION

City enumerators working among the small ranch owners find that their work is being greatly retarded by the wives of the owners not having information at hand that will serve to answer questions, the result being that the census takers have to make one or more return trips to the home. One of the enumerators today requested the Register to publish a few questions that occur on the agricultural reports, and to advise women to get the details from their husbands so that they can answer them when the enumerator calls. Here are some of the important questions: How many years, if any, did you work for wages? How many years, if any, were you a tenant? How many years, if any, have you farmed as owner? What was the total value of your farm January 1, 1920? What was the value of all the buildings? What is the value of the implements and machinery belonging to the farm? What amount was spent for feed for domestic animals during the year? For fertilizer; for labor? How many trees of bearing age? How many pounds and boxes of produce were grown last year? How much was paid for irrigation? If women will get these details they can be of material assistance to the enumerators.

A. West to go ahead with necessary proceedings preliminary to a call for bids.

But if you won't exercise vigorously you must take "Cascarets."

There is nothing like bending exercises, taking long walks or chopping wood to keep the liver and bowels active, but most folks take their exercise in an easy chair. CALLAHAN COUNTY —and what they hold for you

Callahan County—We own 80 acres. This territory is fastly proving to be one of the bigger oil districts of the state. A 40,000,000 feet gasser was brought in recently near Clyde, in this county.

COLEMAN COUNTY

Coleman County—Our holdings here comprise 100 acres. Fifteen wells have been drilled near our properties—all are producers—not one a dry hole. Geologists' reports here are most favorable.

PRESIDIO COUNTY

Presidio County—This district is semi-proven. Located as it is in the southern part of the state, it has already brought in several wells. We have 320 acres here.

Other Holdings—Officials of our company are at all times investigating properties. An option on 1100 acres was recently made and stockholders of the company share in all of the new properties we acquire. Texas is called the state of quick action.
